July 4th festivities under way

Country and western stars Ron Mahan and the Country Lads will perform tonight at 8 at the ice rink at Wilson Park as the Granite City Bank District 20th annual July 4th celebration continues.

The festivities began Saturday at 10 a.m. with a parade of the Granite City High School marching band, the Granite City Junior High School band, and the Granite City Senior High School band. The parade was sponsored by the Granite City Bank and the Granite City Junior High School.

The parade and concert were followed by a fireworks display at 9 p.m. The fireworks were set off by the Granite City Fire Department.

A softball tournament for men and women teams began today with the Granite City team playing against the Madison team at 10 a.m. The Granite City team is playing at home and the Madison team is playing away.

The Granite City team is coached by Coach [Name] and the Madison team is coached by Coach [Name]. The tournament will continue through Friday.

Woman on a U.S. coin

One nation under God

The first circulating U.S. coin to bear the likeness of a woman, the Susan B. Anthony dollar, was released to the public today and there was an enthusiastic response by Quad-City area women.

Some used the occasion to call attention to the fact that Illinois has an equal rights amendment in its state constitution but has not ratified the federal ERA amendment.

The Anthony dollar is slightly larger than a quarter and features raised edges to ease identification by the blind.

Settle — like a woman — it is two-thirds the size and one-third the weight of the Eisenhower dollar, which it replaces, and the Treasury Department expects consumers to find it convenient to use.

Many are disappointed by assembly

Taxpayers and public officials have been looking to the Illinois General Assembly for answers to many questions, but few answers were provided during the session that went into "overtime" yesterday after "lame hours" adjournment efforts failed Saturday night.

To replace the corporate personal property tax, which will end after this summer's tax collection, the Democratic-controlled legislature on Saturday enacted by a 59-43 vote a 6.85-percent corporate income tax that Republican Gov. James R. Thompson has vowed to veto. This could lead to weeks of uncertainty and a special session prior to the scheduled Oct. 3 deliberations.

Much of the pre-adjournment weekend debate dealt with the road construction and maintenance program and efforts to add a cent and a half to the present gasoline tax of seven and a half cents per gallon. Thompson said the failure to adopt a program for road improvements and mass transit can cost Illinois $70 million in federal aid.

The half-billion-dollar business income tax plan, increasing the current 4.5-percent tax, is considered a vital revenue source for school districts and many other local-level governmental bodies.

With funds to continue state agencies and commissions not yet approved Saturday night, the Sunday meeting was scheduled to authorize those appropriations. It technically was a part of the regular June actions, but at any future sessions a three-fifths majority rule will prevail.

Actions late last week included raising the drinking age for beer and wine from 19 to 21; permitting railroads that block crossings for long periods, and restricting disposal of hazardous wastes. On the latter issue, Thompson and Attorney General William Scott differ on which is the best of two bills that were passed.

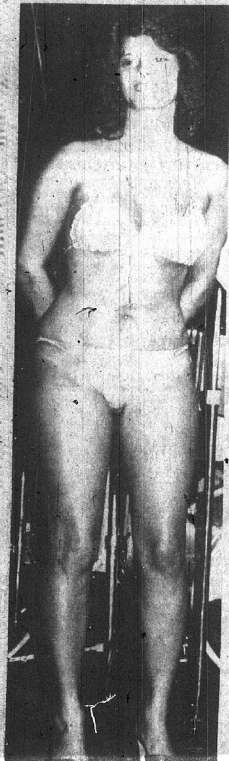

Tax relief proposals in general failed to pass. A major relief bill, elimination of the sales tax on food and drugs, was adopted but faces a certain veto.

Bi-State transit subsidy funds were boosted by 50 percent but are to be cut in 1980. Local governments in this area fail to provide part of the bus system's revenue.

Buying information they need. "These regulations are designed to do just that."

Crawford said this means that if gasoline is more than a dollar a gallon, on many pumps the price on the pump will be one-half the per-gallon price.

In such cases, the total shown at the end of the sale is one-half the total charge for the gas. Drivers should multiply that figure by two to determine what they owe, Crawford said.

Wilkins on SIU board

Dr. George T. Wilkins Jr., 46, pediatrician, a past president of the Illinois State Medical Society, was appointed by Governor James R. Thompson on Friday as a member of the Board of Trustees of Southern Illinois University.

Dr. Wilkins, who has a medical office in Granite City, said Saturday he will advocate a policy of open meetings by the SIU board except for topics specified by state law. The board has been assailed for meeting privately on revising the university governance structure. Madison County State's Attorney Nicholas Byron has filed suit against SIU for holding secret meetings.

Dr. Wilkins will replace Dr. David (Continued on Page 8)

Hearings scheduled

A three-day series of public hearings in which the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency will take testimony in a suit filed by the Illinois attorney general's office against Granite City Steel will open Monday, July 9, at the city hall.

Hearings are scheduled at 10 a.m. July 9, at 9 a.m. July 10, and again at 10 a.m. on July 11.

The suit is based on alleged air pollution by a plant which the EPA contends was emitted by the steel firm's smelter plant during October and November 1977.

Steel firm officials have denied the charges and have pointed out that the smokestack does not emit a white ash. Randall Robertson, Granite City attorney representing the steel company, said there is little likelihood of a settlement of the case out of court before the hearings are due.

Robertson said there must be some common ground for a settlement, "and so far, that hasn't happened."

The suit alleges three separate violations of the state's air pollution emission regulations under statutes that provide penalties up to $100,000.

Robert Matosian, Granite City attorney, has been assigned as hearing officer in the case.

Drive breakfast

On Wednesday, July 11 the first annual American Cancer Society breakfast will be held at 7:30 a.m. at the Granite City Township Building auditorium, 2000 Delmar Ave.

Granite City officials and off-duty firemen have volunteered to cook and serve the breakfast. Guest speaker will be Dan Dieckhoff of the football Cardinals.

In order to raise the yearly quota, the tickets for the breakfast will be $5 each, or a table for six can be reserved.

A spokesman commented, "Please make your reservations on or before July 5, make the check payable to the American Cancer Society, and mail to: 'MRS. Paul Schuler, City Hall, Granite City, Ill., or Supervisor Nelson Haglund, 2000 Delmar Ave., Granite City, Ill. 62040."

"All proceeds will aid the Granite City cancer crusade."

Half-gallon pump prices

Gasoline buyers may have to do a little simple arithmetic at the gasoline pumps, as of July 1, as a result of emergency rules adopted by the Illinois Department of Agriculture.

Effective yesterday, the department's Division of Agricultural Industry Regulation is allowing the use of pumps which are not capable of computing prices that exceed 99.9 cents per gallon for the sale of gasoline priced higher than that.

Tom Crawford, superintendent of the division, said, "What's happened is that only a small number of gasoline pumps in Illinois are capable of computing gasoline prices in excess of a dollar a gallon."

"With the rapidly increasing price of petroleum products in general, and gasoline in particular, a procedure must be set up to allow retailers to price their products accurately while still providing consumers with all the buying information they need. "These regulations are designed to do just that."

Crawford said this means that if gasoline is more than a dollar a gallon, on many pumps the price on the pump will be one-half the per-gallon price. In such cases, the total shown at the end of the sale is one-half the total charge for the gas. Drivers should multiply that figure by two to determine what they owe, Crawford said.

TOUCHED BY EMOTION. Chester Dean of Pontoon Beach and his wife, Thelma, receive awards from the Lions Club of Pontoon Beach Thursday night for being "citizens of the year" and for heroism. The awards were presented by Larry J. McKen, right, outgoing president of the club. The couple received the club's Medal of Valor for helping save the lives of Vince and Julia Thorpe, who nearly died from fumes in the Thorpe's home caused by a faulty gas heater. The citizen of the year awards were given for the Deans' activities in volunteering help for senior citizens, children and others.

EARN TROPHIES. Among those receiving honors in the poster contest held in conjunction with the Ainslie Shrine Circus parade were Paul Langley of Maryville School, front left, first place, and Vickie Hlava of Parkway School, second place. Third place participant was Lisa Hayes who was not present for the photograph. Shown with them are Kelly Hogan, parade chairman, left, and Potentate Dick Ervay.

Immunizations high in schools

About 98.8 percent of high school students in the Granite City public schools have been immunized against polio, the same number have had adequate measles immunizations and 97.7 percent have had DPT (diphtheria, polio and typhoid) shots, according to the district's annual immunization survey presented to the Board of Education last week.

School nurses Nancy Graf and Ruth McCarty completed the survey, which was based upon total enrollment in the district during the 1978-79 school year.

Although the percentages of those protected from the basic diseases were lower in the elementary and junior high schools, the two nurses concluded that the figures reflect well on the protection most children are receiving.

"The Rubella (German measles) percentage in elementary and pre-school leaves no room (on the survey sheet) for explaining that some children have had the disease (which is self-immunizing). The sheet only says, 'Had vaccine,' or 'Did not have vaccine,' so our 90.3 percent who are vaccinated is quite good. At least we feel that it is."

"Of course, 100 percent would be even better and hopefully, some day it will reach that magic number in all buildings," the survey report states. "Several (schools) have already reached that goal, but other buildings bring down the good ratings," the report noted.

In the junior high schools, 86.9 percent of the students are fully protected by four doses of serum and many others are in compliance with three doses of serum, although not fully protected. DPT shots have been given to 88.3 percent of the junior high school students and 93.4 percent are protected from measles.

Only 80.6 percent are protected against Rubella through vaccinations, but others have had the disease.

Among elementary and preschool children, 87.7 percent are fully protected against polio, 55.4 percent have had DPT shots, 95.6 percent are immunized against measles and 90.3 percent have had Rubella shots, according to the survey.

In kindergarten and preschool children, protection ratios found were 81.5 percent against polio, 93.4 percent for DPT, 97.2 percent for measles, and 93.8 percent for Rubella.

While mumps immunizations are not required by state law for school children, most children have been protected, including 81 percent in the high schools, 61.3 percent in junior highs, 75.8 percent in elementary schools and 88.8 percent in kindergarten and pre-school programs, according to the survey.

"Each nurse has worked continuously for physical exams and completed immunizations. New students have 60 days to obtain necessary physical exams, but so many of them move in and out of the district and between schools that 100 percent compliance is very difficult. But we keep trying," the nurses concluded.

Burglary suspects charged last week

Michael G. Gagliano, 17, of 2633 Iowa St., was charged with a felony count of burglary Monday evening and a 15-year-old Granite City boy faces juvenile court charges in connection with a weekend break-in at the Taco Hut, 2888 Madison Ave.

Officers on patrol early Saturday saw a youth run across the parking lot of Century 21 Real Estate, 2862 Madison Ave., and chased him, catching the 15-year-old.

Another teen approached them and said he had been chasing the youth from the Taco Hut, which had just been burglarized.

The teen said he was among three people keeping a watch over carpeting being sold on the Taco Hut parking lot and he saw two youths run from the inside of the Taco Hut and chased them.

Police found the rear door of the building open and the lid removed from the safe. Cabinets and drawers had been opened and searched.

Questioning of the 15-year-old led to the arrest a short time later of Gagliano at his home.

Officers believe one of the youths took a key to the Taco Hut from one of his relatives, who is an employee there, and used the key to gain entry.

The burglary warrant was issued Monday afternoon by the Madison County state's attorney's office and bond was set at $20,000.

Pontoon rejects license

A request for a liquor license to operate the former Ali's Lounge on Pontoon Beach at Kinsberg Lane in Pontoon Beach has been rejected by the Pontoon Beach Village Board on the basis of a court order requiring the building not be used for a tavern until November.

The former operator, Harry Ellsworth, had his liquor license revoked following several disturbances at the tavern. Charles Farmley, son of the owner of the building, is requesting a license to reopen the business.

The board also agreed to advertise for bids for gasoline for police cars. Pontoon Mobil had supplied the gasoline under contract with the village until the new village president, Paul Bennett, was elected and then ordered the business switched to Pontoon Fina, which he formerly owned.

Village officials contended the change of stations was due to billing disagreements with Jerry Henderson, owner of Pontoon Mobil, but Henderson contended the change was because he supported Bennett's opponent, Donald Patrick, in the last village election.

Gary Novich resigns from the Venice Town Board

Gary R. Novich, 27, of 921 Lee Ave., Madison, who has served two years as a trustee of Venice Township, is resigning his post, effective Friday, and plans to move to California.

In a letter to Supervisor Christ Pashoff and the Town Board of Trustees, Novich stated, "I have taken the above action with deep regret and mixed emotions after having served our township wisely and resourcefully as an elected official."

"However, I have accepted an executive position in county government in the state of California which necessitates my leaving the area."

"It has been a pleasurable experience working with you gentlemen and the people of Venice Township. Hopefully my actions, although vocal at times, have enlightened some of the citizens about the need to participate in their township government."

the letter concluded.

Novich has been a lifelong resident of Madison. Prior to being elected a township trustee, he ran unsuccessfully for two posts. He lost by 57 votes when he ran for Third Ward alderman in Madison and lost by only 19 votes when he attempted to defeat a Madison County Board member in 1976. The next year, he was elected to the Venice Town Board.

Novich is single. He attended St. Mary's School, Madison High School and McKendree College in Lebanon, where he was a political science major.

He is a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church, the Holy Name Booster Society, Polish Lodge 1004, the Madison City Organization, the Knights of Columbus, the Madison Lions and the Granite City Democratic Club.

He is a licensed real estate broker in Illinois.

Progress by veterans in finding employment

A CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) project to find jobs for veterans who receive public aid has brought encouraging results, Illinois Public Aid Director Arthur P. Quern reports.

Quern said, "Finding jobs for Vietnam-era veterans on public aid has long been a goal of many social welfare agencies. The results of this special CETA project represents a step in finding ways to help those who sacrificed so much in the Vietnam war but have not had success in the job market."

The CETA Title VI project operated from August 1977 through August 1978. Of the 138 persons involved, 126 (91 percent) are still working full-time and are no longer on public aid. Only 12 persons (or 9 percent) who took part in the project are still receiving general assistance.

Participants in the project worked at the Department of Public Aid for a year in a variety of jobs.

"The working experience gave many of the veterans a better self-image and demonstrated to them that jobs other than those requiring unskilled labor were available," Quern related.

"Additionally, the department benefited by making use of the veterans and previously unrecognized skills."

"Of the project's graduates, 20 are currently working full-time with the state, while the remainder of those employed have jobs in private industry."

WHOSE HOT AIR IS FILLING THESE BALLOONS?

Musicians at the 15th National Ragtime Festival hosted on the Goldenrod Showboat contributed their hot air—the life breath of jazz—by blowing up balloons and autographing them for a new dimension to the National Ragtime and Jazz Archive at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville's Lovejoy Library. Holding the balloons are Marianne Kozlowski (right), fine arts librarian at SIUE, and Jay Eberle and Linda Cockrill, workers in the university's jazz archive.

Jazz archive—it's not just a lot of 'hot air'

BY MILDRED ARNOLD
A new dimension has been added to the National Ragtime and Jazz Archive at SIUE's Lovejoy Library—the world's only ragtime hot air balloon collection.

The unique collection evolved through a series of coincidences, according to Marianne Kozlowski, fine arts librarian at SIUE.

"Jay Eberle, a CETA worker in the jazz archive, brought 20 hot air balloons to the library one day and promptly forgot about them," she explained. "Some time later, a candidate for the position of director of jazz studies at SIUE was given a look at our jazz memorabilia."

"As we escorted him about the library, we were charmed when he saw the forgotten balloons. However, the candidate put us at ease when he smiled and asked, 'Whose hot air is filling these balloons?'"

"What an idea," Marianne Kozlowski exclaimed in response. "We'll fill balloons with jazz musicians' hot air and have them autograph them. It may be a bit corny, but it will be unique."

The 15th annual National Ragtime Festival hosted in June on the Goldenrod Showboat provided a golden (and intended) opportunity to get off to a good start on the unusual collection.

A great deal of melodic hot jazz air was generated on the coincidences, according to Marianne Kozlowski and Eberle showed up one evening to literally preserve the atmosphere of the festival in multi-colored balloons.

Musicians contributed their hot air—the life breath of jazz—by blowing up balloons and autographing them for the jazz archive.

"Most people picture an archive as a dark and musty room piled high with tattered manuscripts," said Eberle. "What we are trying to emphasize with these balloons is that a living tradition is being maintained by the musicians at the National Ragtime Festival and will be preserved in the National Ragtime and Jazz Archive at SIUE."

The SIUE collection was officially designated a National Ragtime and Jazz Archive in March 1974.

in standard cash register drawers and is described as easier to count and stack than $1 notes. The vending industry also favors the coin over the note because it is easier mechanically to make change for a coin, and simpler to detect counterfeit.

The Anthony dollar costs about 3 cents to produce and is expected to last 15 years in circulation. Dollar notes, of which about three billion are in circulation, cost 1.9 cents and survive only about 18 months in circulation. The Treasury estimates it could save as much as $4.5 million annually if the new coin is widely accepted.

The obverse of the dollar coin honors suffragist Susan B. Anthony (1820-1906), whose efforts to win the vote for women were realized with the passage of the 19th Amendment in 1920. The reverse of the new coin commemorates the July 20, 1969, landing of the Apollo 11 spacecraft on the moon.

Federal Reserve district banks supplied the coins to commercial banks in advance of the release date so they would be immediately available today.

How to foil an unsuccessful fire

By BOB GONKO

Every successful cookout begins with a good fire, according to rules for charcoaling.

How to light the fire the right way: Line the grill with heavy duty aluminum foil — for faster cooking and easier clean-up later.

Stack the briquets in a pyramid. They'll light faster since air can circulate around them.

Use a good starter. Try the electric or chimney type, or choose a liquid, jelly or solid fibrous cubes.

Be patient! Let the briquets burn to just the right stage before adding food. Generally they'll require 20 to 40 minutes.

How to judge the temperature of a charcoal cooking fire: To tell when it's cooking time: Different brands of charcoal give off varying degrees of heat in a given time. Thus, some are ready for cooking sooner than others.

In daylight, the coals are ready for cooking when they are covered by a layer of grey ash at night they'll have a bright red glow.

At this stage, spread the briquets into a single layer with tongs and place food on the grill.

Quick temperature test: Hold your hand at the cooking height, palm side down. If you can keep it in position for 2 seconds, the temperature is high or hot, 3 seconds, medium-higher hot, 4 seconds, medium, 5 seconds, low.

To lower the temperature: Raise the grid, or spread out the coals.

To raise the temperature: Tap ash from coals, or push them closer.

When more coals are needed: Add to their edge of hot coals.

If splattering fat causes flareups: Put flames out by raising grid, spreading out coals, or removing a few coals. If all else fails, have a water bottle handy (remove food before sprinkling). For rotisserie cooking, place foil drip pan in front of the coals in the fire box to catch the drippings, thus eliminating flareups before they start.

How to make clean-up easy: Prevention: Line the grill with heavy duty aluminum foil spray the grill rack with a non-stick coating.

Cure: To remove grease and grilling on food particles, sprinkle dry baking soda on a damp sponge and scrub rim with water-soda solution.

Store: Clean after each use then cover the grill and store in a clean dry place.

Vietnam war veterans filing claims for defoliant ailments

The list of American casualties of the Vietnam War continues to mount, even though U.S. involvement in the fighting in Indochina ended several years ago.

Hundreds of thousands—possibly many more—American GIs were exposed to Agent Orange and other powerful toxic defoliants while fighting in Southeast Asia during the Vietnam War.

Agent Orange contains dioxin, which scientist Barry Commoner and others have called "the most toxic man-made substance known." Dioxin has been blamed for a number of severe health problems and some deaths among Vietnam veterans, as well as birth defects among some of their children. These disabilities are showing up years after exposure to herbicides such as Agent Orange.

The 622,000-member Disabled American Veterans (DAV) has set up a nationwide program to assist veterans in filing claims with the Veterans Administration (VA) for health care and disability benefits for illnesses that may be associated with dioxin poisoning.

The most common symptoms attributed to dioxin poisoning include:

—Numbness in fingers, toes, arms and legs in varying degrees.

—Nervous disorders, especially loss or decrease in the sensitivity of the senses.

—Psychological effects, including loss of memory, confusion, aggression or irritability.

—Skin rashes, specifically chloracne, which resembles a severe case of acne and is usually found on the face, arms, chest, back or legs.

—Altered sex drive, including diminished sex drive or impotence among men and increased sexual activity among women.

—Cancer, particularly cancer of the liver; and —Birth defects in children born to affected parents—primarily defects of the hands, fingers, feet and toes. Some hyperactivity and psychological problems have been reported in children of affected parents.

"It will be extremely difficult to show that these disabilities are the result of exposure to Agent Orange for the purposes of claims for VA benefits," said DAV National Director of Services Norman B. Hartnett.

"That's why it's so important that a Vietnam veteran have a veterans' benefits expert, who does not get his paycheck from the government, represent him in filing this type of claim."

The services of DAV veterans' benefits experts are provided free of charge to veterans and members of their families.

Veterans of the war in Southeast Asia who have symptoms they feel may be related to exposure to such herbicides as Agent Orange are to contact:

National Service Headquarters, Disabled American Veterans, 807 Maine Ave., S.W., Washington, D.C. 20024.

The case will then be referred to a DAV national service officer, in the veteran's area, who will have the resources and expertise of the entire DAV National Service Program behind him in developing a claim.

Occupancy permit law under study

An "occupancy permit" law which would establish minimum building requirements for Granite City property is under study of the City Council's ordinance committee, which expects to take five or six months in drafting the "best possible" ordinance.

The committee held its first meeting to discuss the program last week and said it probably will meet every two weeks on Wednesdays to receive input and conduct research on the proposed bill. Alderman Paul Fisk of the Third Ward is chairman of the committee. Charles Douglas of the First Ward and Roy Poulos of the Third Ward are committee members.

The matter of establishing new housing code regulations and an occupancy permit law, under which a person moving into a residence would be required to obtain a permit, was referred to the council's ordinance committee several weeks ago at the urging of Alderman Warren Decatur who told the aldermen that he believed some action should be taken to revise former occupancy permit law which never reached final passage on the council floor.

The measure to which Decatur referred was presented to the council two years ago, but was held up because some aldermen described it as "too restrictive." The proposed bill at that time established plumbing, electrical and other building codes which must be met at the time a person moved into the house and before he could be issued an occupancy permit.

The measure never reached a final passage vote on the council floor and was tabled for revision. The bill has not been presented to the council since.

Douglas said Wednesday night's meeting involved a general discussion of procedure in researching other ordinances and for drafting an ordinance that "will be the best possible ordinance the city can have."

He said it is probable that public hearings will be held later as the bill nears completion. He said citizens with an interest in the legislation will be invited to offer suggestions and aid the committee in its work.

Ordinances of other cities which have occupancy permit requirements will be studied by the committee, along with the success of the bills as they relate to residential occupancy and the condition of property. Such an ordinance now in effect in Madison will be among those to be reviewed, Douglas said.

Health and Safety Tip

From the American Medical Association

Safety Rules Set for Sane Boating

Boating is increasing as a family summer pastime all across the nation. And the boom in boating has greatly increased the potential hazard for drowning.

With boat traffic getting heavier each summer on the lakes and streams and shorelines, boat operators must understand and practice safe boating practices.

The American Medical Association reminds that boating equipment should be checked before leaving shore. Essential safety equipment for a boat includes an anchor, a fire extinguisher, oars, a horn, running lights, a signal mirror and a first aid kit.

A life preserver or flotation cushion should be provided for each person aboard. Nonswimmers should wear life jackets at all times afloat. Some states have laws requiring such equipment before boats can be licensed for hire.

Most boating accidents involve faulty operation, negligence, or ignorance. The skipper should know his or her boat, keep his mind on business, and operate the boat according to nautical rules. And by all means stay ashore in threatening weather.

If water skiing is on your list of water activities, make certain you and other members of your family who might try the sport know how to swim. There should be at least two persons in the boat when pulling water skiers.

Good physical condition is a prerequisite for water skiing. The skier should practice basic maneuvers before adding new or advanced skills. A life jacket or belt should be worn at all times. A hand full might knock the wind out of the skier temporarily. In case of a fall the skier should stay with the skis and signal the boatman that he is all right. Ski only during the daytime, never at night.

Swimming, one of the most popular of summer sports, can be a healthful, stimulating part of the summer vacation. On the other hand, swimming can be one of the most dangerous of outdoor pastimes.

The American Medical Association reminds that healthful swimming begins with clean, sanitary water. Water is an easy and quick means of transmission for many disease organisms, and inevitably swimmers will swallow some water. Swim only in approved areas where the water is clean and free from pollution.

Swimming can be dangerous. Deaths from drowning can occur at any age. Inability to swim, inexperience, carelessness, poor judgment or lack of supervision are causes of most water accidents. Infants and toddlers need constant supervision by adults, who themselves should wear life jackets at all times afloat. Some states have laws requiring such equipment before boats can be licensed for hire.

Family Camping Can Be Made Safe

To millions of Americans, living in the woods for a few days is one of the most enjoyable and relaxing vacations. Proper planning and adequate precautions against potential health hazards can make the camping trip relatively hazard free.

The trick is to make the camp a well-managed and safe one, rather than a haphazard affair.

The American Medical Association suggests you examine the equipment carefully, including bedding and tent, and also your clothing, cooking equipment and food. Sleeping bags and air mattresses provide more warmth and comfort than cots.

Select clothing with regard to the season, freedom of movement, and protection from insects, briars and heavy brush. Include rain jackets and proper sleeping clothes.

Select the route for the camping expedition well in advance. Brief all members of the group on guidelines. Equipment should include a first aid kit, comfortable shoes, matches in a waterproof container, a compass, rainwear and an ax or hatchet.

Adquate meal planning for a camping trip is of paramount importance. The camper's health depends on well-selected and substantial foods. Precautions must be taken for safe preservation of all foods on a camping trip. Refrigeration, for instance, usually is lacking, or primitive.

Running water is not necessarily clean water. Campers should use water only from springs and wells that have been declared safe. If necessary to use water from creeks, lakes or rivers, boil it before use, or use water purification tablets.

World Of Music

Classy LP teams Dionne, Manilow

By ROBIN WELLES

HOLLYWOOD — This is the way composer Burt Bacharach described her first time he saw her:

"I couldn't help noticing her. Dionne had something — it was there when I first met her: a kind of elegance, her flow and feeling for the music."

The year was 1960 and neither Dionne Warwick nor Bacharach had yet made a major impact on the music scene. But they soon did — in one of the greatest collaborations between singer and composer.

Nineteen years later both are at the peak of their talent.

Dionne has now teamed up with the multi-talented Barry Manilow to do an album for Arista called simply, "Dionne."

Manilow produced, arranged and wrote a couple of the songs that beautifully blend the superb vocal voice — a voice that was trained in gospel singing when she was a teen.

Rupert Holmes, Isaac Hayes, Richard Kerr and Cissy Houston are some of the other composers on this classy LP.

POPS WE LOVE YOU... The Album (Motown) — This is one of those fine roundups of songs performed by artists in the Motown stable. They include Diana Ross, Marvin Gaye, Smokey Robinson, Stevie Wonder, Jermaine Jackson and Tata Vega. Very danceable music — and an album that doesn't get monotonous.

ENGELBERT — This Moment in Time (Epic) — Mr. Romance has taken the unlikely name of Humperdinck and made it a symbol for champagne and moonlight and roses. His fans — and there are many, many of them — will get all gushy over this one. Engelbert, like Liberace, serves up what they want: "You've got to look after your fans because they look after you."

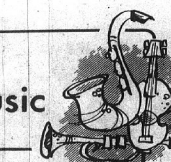

ROCK 'N' ROLL HIGH SCHOOL — Movie Sound Track (Sire) — This was the first movie done by the Ramones and there is plenty of action and violence in the movie — and in the music. Johnny Ramone and his colleagues play rock stars, which they are. But there is much more on the LP. Alice Cooper, Todd Rundgren, Chuck Berry, Brownsville Station — plenty of material to wake up the neighbors.

THE BALLET BOX — Favorite American Ballets (RCA) — A lot of fine music in this three-record set. The ballets include Richard Rodgers' "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue," Aaron Copland's "Appalachian Spring" and "Rodeo," Leonard Bernstein's "Fancy Free" and Kay-Gottschalk's "Cakewalk." Four of the ballets in the album are performed by the Boston Pops under Fiedler.

DON WILLIAMS — The Best Of (MCA) — Williams is a regular homebody who pops out now and then to pick up the rent money by crooning some country tunes. His clean, smooth voice reminds some of the late Jim Reeves. Williams' "best" include "Tulsa Time," "Turn Out the Lights" and "Love Me Tonight." "All the Rivers Run Dry" and "I'm Just a Country Boy."

ANTON WEBERN — Complete Works (Columbia) — This prodigious musical undertaking, a four-record set, was put together under the direction of Pierre Boulez, utilizing the London Symphony Orchestra, the John Aldis Choir, the Juilliard Quartet and Heather Harper. Webern was an Austrian-born experimentalist who pushed the 12-note scale and had a major impact on composers in the period following World War II. Webern was killed accidentally on Sept. 15, 1945, by an American soldier who fired at him in the dark.

THELONIOUS MONK — Always Know (CBS) — The jazz pianist worked with a quartet back in the Sixties that included Charlie Rouse on tenor saxophone, Frankie Duniop and Ben Riley on drums, and Larry Gales and Ruth Warren on bass. This two-record set is from some of their performances from 1963-68. Newport, New York City and San Francisco. All are wonderfully reflective of this introspective, brooding man with his strange harmonies.

ADM takes gamble on gasohol

By CHARLYN FARGO

SPRINGFIELD — Archer Daniels Midland of Decatur has taken a gamble on Gasohol.

Successful as a pioneer in the extraction of soy protein from soybeans, ADM continues to look for new uses for grain, according to DuBurket, ADM vice president.

"That's why we took the risk with Gasohol. New improvements keep us on top of things," Burket explained.

ADM produces 50,000 gallons of alcohol a day, permitting the manufacture of 500,000 gallons of Gasohol for distribution all over the Midwest.

The alcohol is made from degerminated kernels of corn.

The germ part of a kernel is the white, ear-shaped part. It's here that the oil and protein content of corn is located.

The germ is then processed and the oil is extracted. The protein portion of the germ is used in animal feeds.

For Gasohol production, the yellow part of the corn kernel, high in starch, is used," he said. "This is converted to sugar, then the sugar to alcohol. Only a small residue is left over, about 2 percent. We dry it for feed grains."

According to Burket, processes that don't degerminate the corn in the beginning have a much larger residue.

Gasohol opponents claim it takes more energy to produce Gasohol than the amount of energy it produces. Burket says the energy figures that opponents cite include energy used for growing the corn, in addition to the manufacturing process.

Those factors are not considered when determining the amount of energy used to produce regular gasoline, Burket said.

Burket feels a federal program is needed to make Gasohol a competitive alternative to gasoline.

"To make anything work, the government has to get involved and behind a new program. Right now we have a lot of interest, surplus land, escalating gas-line prices. We just need the government to push Gasohol."

Another problem facing Gasohol is the difficulty of producing it at a competitive price, according to Burket.

"Much of the work on Gasohol is in a trial and error stage. It's hard to determine exact production costs."

One bushel of corn can produce 2.8 gallons of ethanol, which, when combined with 23.4 gallons of gasoline, yields 26 gallons of Gasohol.

Burket acknowledges corn stalks would be a much cheaper source, but technology hasn't yet developed machines to collect the stalks in sufficient quantity, he said.

"The economy of scale is hard to achieve," Burket said. "To do the amount of volume needed for a plant to be efficient, we need bigger plants. Most today are processing 20,000 bushels of corn a day. They need to be processing more than 100,000 bushels a day."

Other agricultural byproducts, such as sugar cane wastes, also would be much more efficient ethanol sources. But they aren't available in sufficient quantity either, Burket said.

The wholesale price of ethanol produced by fermentation of corn is about $1.25 per gallon, assuming a corn price to the farmer of about $2 per bushel, according to Bob Schwartz, agriculture economist at the University of Illinois.

Schwartz says wholesale gasoline prices last December averaged 45 cents per gallon. He estimated the current wholesale blend price of ethanol and gasoline for Gasohol to be 53 cents per gallon, 8 cents more than the wholesale price of regular gasoline.

Smith 2nd quarter 'strong'; fewer auto and truck frames

Operating results are expected to remain strong in the second quarter at A. O. Smith Corporation, it was announced Monday in Milwaukee by L. B. Smith, chairman and chief executive officer.

He said sales are expected to be at record levels. Earnings before extraordinary items should also be very strong, Smith said.

Sales in the second quarter will be approximately $236,000,000, compared with $225,877,000 last year.

Profits before extraordinary items will be in the range of $11,250,000 to $12,350,000 or $2.30 to $2.50 per share, compared with the second quarter of 1978 when earnings were $9,954,000, or $2.03 per share.

In the latter part of the quarter, Smith said, sales and profits were adversely affected at a number of operations because of the unavailability of trucks.

Smith said that as previously announced, second quarter earnings will be reduced by an extraordinary charge of $1.22 per share as a result of claims which arose principally out of civil antitrust charges made against manufacturers of water heating equipment.

For the first six months of the year, Smith said sales are expected to be $460,000,000 compared with $416,106,000 in the first half of last year.

Earnings before extraordinary items will be in the range of $19,700,000 to $20,700,000 or $4.30 per share, compared with earnings for the first six months of 1978 of $15,882,000, or $3.24 per share.

A. O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc., a subsidiary which manufactures livestock feeding and waste management systems, is experiencing exceptionally strong demand as farmers continue to benefit from increasing prices for meat and dairy products.

Profits at the subsidiary will be up substantially in the second quarter from a year ago as unit sales are expected to reach an all-time high.

Operating performance at the Consumer Products Division, which manufactures water heating equipment, will be improved in the second quarter from a year ago as a result of increased volume and the absence of a strike which reduced profits in 1978.

Sales of A. O. Smith electric motors will be up only modestly from the second quarter of last year because of recent strikes at customer plants. Smith said the profits were affected by the strikes, higher raw material costs and startup costs at the division's new plant in Mebane, N.C.

The Automotive Division, the company's largest operating unit, will have lower sales and profits in the second quarter compared with last year.

Volume is down because of slightly lower schedules for automotive and truck frames manufactured by the division. This is a result of customers eliminating overtime for production of large cars and light trucks.

A. O. Smith, with its subsidiaries, has a product line that includes auto and truck frames, electric motors, agricultural feed storage and handling systems, water heating equipment, fiber glass reinforced plastic pipe and computer services.

The Lighter Side

By Cathey Jamison
Press-Record Feature Editor

Concert night can be both exhausting and exhilarating

I am usually game for anything, but I fear that I am getting too old for some rock concerts.

I went to see the Marshall Tucker Band, taking along a young friend who had just graduated from high school. The concert was a graduation gift from me and my husband.

We had great seats, and I was excited about going. I figured to leave late and avoid the traffic. Boy, was I wrong.

I don't know how many people attended Tucker that night, but it must have been a million. I had never seen so many cars, all making their way to the same place as I was.

A million teenagers, and I had to make my way through the traffic and the crowd to get to my terrific seats. I tried to protect my almost healed broken rib as I moved through the crowd.

Everyone was in a great mood and it was infectious. Despite the hassle of getting to the seats, I knew I was going to have a good time.

Frizzies soared through the air. I kept one eye on the sky, sure that I was going to be hit by one at any moment. I've always had this thing about being beamed by a frizbee.

I got to my seat and sat back to enjoy the concert, ever mindful of the UFO's whizzing about.

Saying that the Marshall Tucker Band plays loud would be the understatement of the century. The music was so loud that it entered every pore of the body. At the same time it was exhilarating.

The music took over the world for the entire concert.

I heard and saw nothing but the Marshall Tucker Band. It was great.

Having that much music drilled into one's body is not completely painless. My just being out of the hospital didn't help. By concert's end I was unsure if I would be able to make it home.

I was completely spent, and everyone around me seemed to be in the same condition. Members of the crowd, which had been lively and full of pep, moved slowly in their efforts to make their way back to their cars.

But they were all smiling, despite the fact that they couldn't hear very much; the sound had done a number on the eardrums. But nobody cared. I didn't. The concert was worth it.

I made my way home and fell into bed, exhausted.

Then I went to another concert. But this time I took in George Benson, a little calmer performer.

I guess I'm getting too old for the likes of the Marshall Tucker Band.

Shooting victim is improving

Robert Jackson Jr., 27, of 1725 Delmar Ave., was listed in satisfactory condition today in St. Elizabeth Medical Center after being shot in the left chest, back and left foot at 1:35 a.m. Friday.

Mr. Jackson was removed from the intensive care unit during the weekend, least twice.

In a statement at the medical center, Jackson told police he returned home and found a man apparently trying to open the front door to his home. The man already had the storm door open, he said.

Jackson said he asked the man what he was doing and the intruder replied, "I'm looking to buy a chick."

The man then turned on Jackson and shot him with an automatic weapon at least twice.

Several persons in the neighborhood told police they thought perhaps three or four shots were fired.

The caliber of the weapon has not been definitely determined, police said.

According to Jackson the man then ran to a truck parked at the curb, came back to the scene with a flashlight and began searching the ground for spent cartridges, a witness told officers.

The sound of the shots aroused the neighborhood and several calls were made to the police.

One neighbor hearing the shots as she was on the second floor of her house, ran down the stairs and outside.

Seeing the man, she called, "Bob, are you all right?"

She told police the man, holding a flashlight in one hand and a gun in the other, turned around and said to her, "Watch out, move back or I'll shoot you, too."

She ran back into her house and locked the door. The man ran to the door, tried to get in but could not.

He then ran to the pickup truck, which a second man was believed to be driving, and left the scene, traveling south on Cleveland Boulevard, turning around, then heading back north on Cleveland boulevard.

One neighbor and her friend described the man as wearing a denim jacket and blue jeans, with medium dark brown hair. He was less than six feet and possibly in his mid-20's.

Police arriving on the scene found the victim about to feel from his front door.

Another neighbor, after the ambulance took Jackson to the medical center, was cleaning up the yard and picked up the victim's boots. He said he noticed a hole all the way through one of the boots, found a hole in the ground, clug down and found one of the bullets that had been fired. He turned the items over to police.

Rendleman of Carbondale on the university board.

State Sen. Sam Vadalabene praised the appointment, saying, "For this six-year term the board will have the good sense, understanding and expertise of a member of one of the finest families in Illinois." George T. Wilkins Sr., a retired educator, is a past Madison County superintendent of schools and state superintendent of public instruction.

Dr. Wilkins Jr. headed the 13,000-member ISMS in 1977-78. He is a longtime associate professor of clinical pediatrics at Washington University School of Medicine, and serves on panels of the American Medical Association.

He received his medical degree from the University of Illinois. Active in many civic duties, he also has served as high school team physician here. He and his wife, Fran, have four children.

New dollar

Day rally in New York City on July 3; a July 3 ceremony at the Verrazano

Narrows Bridge (crossing the New York Harbor between Brooklyn and Staten Island) which has converted the dollar toll gates to accept the Anthony dollar; and a July 6 ceremony in Adams, Mass., birthplace of Susan B. Anthony.

Events are also being planned in Seneca Falls, N.Y., which was the site of the first women's rights convention held on July 19 and 20, 1848. A ceremony will be held in Boston on July 24 at the National Federation of Business and Professional Women.

In expressing her enthusiasm for the new dollar, the mint director added that widespread acceptance of the new coin will improve the nation's cash system for the benefit of the nation's retail and financial communities as well as the American public.

The following comments have been voiced regarding the new Susan B. Anthony dollar:

"It will symbolize for all American women the achievement of their unalienable right to vote... will be a constant reminder of the continuing struggle for the equality of all Americans," President Carter.

"It is the consequence rather than the cause of the general inflationary trend. It underlines a dual issue—this nation's tremendous concern with human rights and with inflation," Secretary of the Treasury Blumenthal.

"We look forward to the Anthony dollar coin becoming the most widely circulating dollar coin in American history. It is far less expensive to produce than a dollar bill. It is small and light, easy and quick to handle, and will remain in good condition during its long life in circulation. We fully anticipate that the American people will accept the new coin as a useful medium of exchange in the nation's currency and coinage system."

"In addition to savings in printing costs, there are lower handling costs for the coin. Currency is difficult to sort and verify... destroying unit currency is cumbersome and costly," Philip E. Caldwell, board of directors of the Federal Reserve System.

"I think the effect and the impact of the new dollar coin over the next three to five years will be to make available around the clock and in convenient places a wider variety of products and services," G. Richard Schreiber, president, National Automatic Merchandising Association.

"We've had eagles on our coins and live buffaloes, but we've never had a live woman. We've got her now," Patricia Schroeder, U.S. representative from Colorado.

"The consumer will not only be delighted at the savings in his and her tax dollars per year, but also it will be less cumbersome to carry," Mary Rose Oaker, U.S. representative from Ohio.

"Perhaps more than any other woman in history, Susan B. Anthony changed our lives by her unending devotion to the ideal that all Americans should have the right to vote and participate in a democracy," Margaret Heckler, U.S. representative from Massachusetts.

"Susan B. Anthony's life was rooted in the realities of the 19th Century struggle to reform American democracy and society. It offers an inspiring model of dedication, perseverance, and courage," Silvio Conte, U.S. representative from Massachusetts.

Anti car Citywide cleanup drive theft base is opened

A citywide, summer-long cleanup program in which the Granite City sanitation department will pick up trash, debris and discarded articles from local homes will get under way July 9.

The pickup program, using two trucks provided by the street department, will begin in the area just east of Nameoki Road and north of Route 203 and will work northward until all of the area east of Nameoki Road has been covered, according to James Stack, who will be in charge of the work for the sanitation department.

Stack said that doorhanger notices will be delivered to the homes in each neighborhood about four days in advance of starting the drive in that particular area, notifying residents to place their discarded articles and trash out for collection.

There will be no pickups of brush, limbs or garbage, Stack said. The program will continue as long as it takes to cover all parts of the city.

Last year the program was completed in the latter part of August and can be expected to take about the same length of time, he added.

Articles for pickup should be placed in alleys in a location that will not block traffic. If there is no alley at any certain location, the items may be placed along the curbs in front of the homes, he noted. The workers will not go onto private property to pick up articles unless it is near the alley and is plainly marked for pickup, Stack said.

After completing work in the area east of Nameoki Road, workers will move into the northern part of the city west of Nameoki Road and work southward until all parts of the city have been covered, Stack explained.

Passbook savings rate goes up to 5 1/2%

The interest we pay on passbook savings is now 5 1/2% annually — compared to the previous 5 1/4%. This new rate is the highest interest government regulations have ever allowed for this type account.

Savings certificate minimums go down to $1,000!

The minimum deposit required to earn the higher interest offered through savings certificates is now just $1,000. ### New high-yielding 4-year money market certificate plan!

New regulations allow us to offer a 4-year money market certificate paying interest tied to the average yield on 4-year U.S. Treasury securities. ## Madison faces suit by EPA

The City of Madison along with several other cities connected with the Lansdowne sewage treatment plant may face a lawsuit by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for not having secondary sewage treatment facilities.

With the former East Side Levee and Sanitary district, now the Metro-East Sanitary district, acting as the lead agency, Madison, Venice, East St. Louis, Sauget and Cahokia entered into agreement for service by the Lansdowne plant, which provided primary treatment.

A secondary treatment plant has yet to be built.

"I talked to the EPA legal department and was informed the suit may have to be filed to get something concrete going," Mayor Mike Sasyk told the council at its meeting Tuesday evening.

"The sanitary board has gotten bogged down on this. Every time we have met, they can not come up with specific documented costs. "We'll turn this over to our attorney," Sasyk said.

City officials expressed a desire to connect with the Granite City treatment plant if the EPA would approve, rather than continue with the sanitary district.

Second Ward Alderman William L. Gushleff was appointed to represent the city on the Community Involvement Committee as part of the St. Louis Metro Area Rail Gateway Enterprise. The committee will study rail development in the area.

A letter and legal papers sent the council by Illinois Power for the renewal of the gas and electric franchise were given to the city attorney for study. It was noted that the franchise submitted was the same as the one agreed on 10 years ago and some change may be in order.

Building Inspector John Dutko reported that the structures at 1300 Madison Ave. have been torn down and make a significant change in the appearance. Dutko further noted that two more structures in the same general area will be coming down soon.

Alderman Thomas Gordon reported that the finance committee met Monday and will be meeting on a regular basis until the 1979-80 budget is finished. The city budget has to be adopted by July 31.

3 vehicle crash

Two drivers were injured in a three-vehicle accident at Nameoki and Fehling roads last week.

Witnesses said the auto of Willie Gallas, 53, of 2901 Oregon Ave., and the pickup truck of Nelvin West Jr., Edwardsville, were stopped in the left turn lane southbound on Nameoki Road when the auto of Mrs. Debra Thaxton, of 1713 Garfield Ave., came out of the lot of Nameoki Standard service station, crossed the south-bound lanes and struck the rear of the pickup truck, pushing it into Gallas' auto. Mrs. Thaxton was issued a ticket charging failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. She was taken by a Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center where she was treated for a cut to her lower lip and an abrasion around her left eye. She was released.

Gallas suffered injuries to his head and neck and was released from the medical center after X-rays were taken.

SWIMMING FUNDED
Members of Target 2000 Metro-East Associates and the Regional Commerce and Growth Association have raised more than $60,000 in a joint effort so that East St. Louis' two public swimming pools can open this summer. It was announced last week. Those aiding the project include Granite City.

Disturbance ends in five arrests

Five persons were arrested during a disturbance in the West Granite City park at the end of West 24th Street at 9:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Police first received a report of a crowd drinking and making noise. They arrived to find about 20 to 25 youths in the park and arrested two who allegedly were drinking beer. Rick D. Bird, 19, Tower Hill, Ill., and Bradley L. Matlock, 19, Findley, Ill., were charged with public consumption of alcohol.

Everyone was ordered to leave the area. Rick Lee Bays Jr., 19, of 2311 Independence Drive, and a 15-year-old Granite City youth allegedly refused to leave and were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct.

One man then approached an officer and said that his uncle, Homer W. Jones, 49, of 2612 Madison Ave., had just struck him. Jones was arrested on a battery complaint.

Jones posted $35 cash bond and was released. When he returned to his home, he found his truck had been turned on its side. The 15-year-old who was arrested earlier was nearby and allegedly told Jones, "That is just the beginning of things to come."

Jones alleged the youth threatened to burn some houses and to shoot someone.

Plans under way for Junior Miss pageant

By KATHY SMALL of the Press-Record
Plans are now being completed for Granite City's second annual Junior Miss Pageant, which is tentatively being scheduled for late summer or early fall. The local Junior Miss competition is part of a nationwide program to honor and reward the country's leading high school girls for achievement in scholastics, creative talents, self-development and community betterment.

To be eligible, local girls must be a senior for the upcoming school year. Interested girls may enter by calling Mrs. Betty Tester, pageant chairman, at 797-0475. Co-chairmen are Pam Tester and Carolyn Yates. Granite City's pageant winner will represent Granite City in the state Junior Miss program at Bollingbrook, Ill., in December 1979, competing with 22 other girls throughout the state for many scholarship awards and the chance to participate in the America's Junior Miss National finals at Mobile, Ala., next spring.

More than $1.5 million in college scholarships, savings bonds and other awards will be offered to Junior Misses at state, local and national levels this year, according to a spokeswoman.

The program began in 1958 with 18 states and 50 girls participating.

It has continued to grow steadily and today all 50 states are participating.

'Mounties' will operate mopeds

Measures being taken to ensure a safe environment on the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville campus have a timely application to energy conservation plans, Charles R. McDonald, the university's director of public safety and chief of police, says.

This department will utilize four moped vehicles and a low-powered motorcycle to provide more visibility and mobility for patrol persons and to make them more accessible to the campus population.

The director of public safety said use of horse patrols also is being seriously considered. Officer Roland Cobine of the University Police has used his own horse for campus patrols on an experimental basis.

The mopeds — motorized bicycles with pedals which can be used as an alternate source of power — and the motorcycle will permit police officers to patrol the campus bicycle traces, parking lots and mail areas with more mobility, McDonald said.

Mopeds have a top speed of 30 miles per hour and deliver between 100 and 150 miles per gallon of gasoline, depending on the driver's weight, driving habits and type of terrain covered.

The motorcycle is a 325-c.c. model which also has exceptionally low gasoline consumption but will cruise at 60 miles per hour.

McDonald said the two-wheeled vehicles will reduce the need for automobiles and result in a substantial fuel saving. The vehicles were ordered last week and are expected to be placed in service in July.

The director of safety said he also is exploring the possibility of establishing a student safety organization to assist the police department in preserving the "best possible environment" on the campus.

He said he hopes the group, which would be similar to the Student Safety Services Organization which he developed at Central Connecticut State College, can be operational during the fall quarter, beginning in September.

McDonald, who assumed his position with SIUE on May 14, had eight years of police, public safety and administrative experience with Central Connecticut State before becoming vice president of Northeast Security, Inc., in 1978.

CAMPUS HORSE PATROLS are among the proposals being considered at SIUE. Officer Roland Cobine of the University Police is shown during an experimental patrol.

Increases for some who receive supplemental aid

Illinois Public Aid Director Arthur F. Quern yesterday announced increases in federal Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits for clients who receive State Supplemental Payments (SSP).

Approximately 60,000 persons are likely to be affected.

Recipients of federal Social Security benefits (SSA) and SSI recipients who have no other income will see an increase in their July checks.

Under federal law, benefits for all SSA recipients will be increased 9.9 percent, with dollar amounts varying for each case.

The new figures for SSI recipients who have no other income break down this way:

Individual (living alone), current total of $189.40, increase of $18.80, new total of $208.20.

Couple, $294.10, $23.20 and $317.30.

Individual (living in another household), $126.27, $12.53 and $138.80.

Couple (living in another household), $189.40, $18.80 and $208.20.

Individuals living in group care facilities will receive the same $25 monthly amount they have been getting.

Although persons under both SSA and SSI will not receive a 9.9 percent increase in each benefit, the total of both will be increased.

SSI recipients who have other income will receive an approximately 9.9 percent increase.

The increase could reduce the amount of aid for those SSA recipients who also receive Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) or General Assistance (GA). Those who receive both SSI and AFDC will not have reductions in their grants.

Definitions of the program follow:

1. SSA is the original Social Security insurance program, administered by the Social Security Administration of the federal government.

Employees pay into this fund while working and receive benefits after retirement. In some cases, dependents of retirees and those who are disabled also receive SSA.

2. SSI (Supplemental Security Income) helps the aged, blind or disabled. This program is administered by the federal government, too. Some persons are eligible for both SSA and SSI.

3. SSP (State Supplemental Payments) is a state-run program to help aged, blind or disabled individuals who need additional financial assistance.

In most instances, assistance provided through this program supplements SSI or SSA.

4. AFDC (Aid to Families with Dependent Children) is a state-administered program which assists certain families in the financial care of their dependent children. Some SSA recipients are eligible for AFDC, but recipients of SSI are not.

5. GA (General Assistance) is a program to help those who are not eligible for AFDC but still need assistance. SSI and SSP recipients are not eligible for GA.

Amvets receive recognition

Amvets Post 51 meeting was held last week at the post home, 3000 Lakeview Drive. Also received was a certificate recognizing the post's 100 percent membership.

Harold Siebert and Charles Wilkins represented Amvets Post 51 at the 34th Illinois State convention of Amvets last week in Peoria.

Klan trying to start Alton area chapter

Alton Telegraph — The first mailing came in a plain white envelope, with his name scrawled and no return address.

Inside were a brochure, an application form and a business card.

It was, said the application form, an "introduction to the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan."

"I thought it was somebody's idea of a joke," he said. "So I threw the stuff away."

A week or so later, after 10 p.m., the phone rang. "Did you get our stuff?" The voice was male, probably middle aged.

"What stuff?"

"The stuff on the Klan."

"Oh that. I threw that away."

The phone went dead. Three days later, another white envelope arrived with the application form, the brochure, and the business card.

This time he read the card. It listed the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan headquarters in Metairie, La., the same place he was supposed to return the application, along with $30 and a signed pledge he was "a white person who believes in the ideals of Western civilization and culture and in the great people that created them, and in the Constitution of the United States."

"I couldn't imagine why anyone would send this material to me," he said. "Nothing about my life or my friends would suggest that I would ever have anything to do with something as despicable as this."

He sent the material to us and thought nothing more about it. A week later, the phone rang again late at night.

"Did you keep the stuff this time?"

"You mean the trash from the Klan?"

"It's not trash. It's a warning."

"Well, I sent your warning to the newspaper."

"That wasn't smart."

"Why?"

"Because when the Knights ride again in this area, your unpatriotic act will be remembered."

The caller hung up. The man says he didn't sleep too well that night.

"This sounds like something out of a gangster movie, doesn't it? These people can't be serious...can they?"

Yes, they can be serious. His experiences with anonymous mail and phone calls weren't the only ones in the area in recent weeks.

Somebody, who, like most Klan organizers, doesn't have guts enough to show his face, is trying to organize a chapter of the Klan in the Alton area.

Their organizing pattern is typical of Klan methods. Anonymous mailings, followed by anonymous phone calls with a slightly threatening tone, set the stage for Klan operations.

Most people in areas like Alton think of the Klan as a fringe group which exists only in the South and poses little threat.

Don't believe it. At one time, the Klan controlled the state government of Indiana. Just a decade ago, they endorsed candidates and controlled county and city governments in several southern states.

Some mistakenly thought the Klan died during the civil rights consciousness of the '60s, but the backlash from busing and other desegregation activities in the '70s has given the Klan new life.

Recent racial clashes in Alabama point to a new militancy in the Klan. Shootings, beatings and even murders are once again blamed on the Klan, who now march with their faces exposed, but their guns and robes hidden beneath the white robes.

"If the Klan is organizing in this area, we would certainly like to know about it," says Maj. Edwin Knezevich of the Madison County Sheriff's Department. "I would hope that people who receive these calls would tell us about it."

The FBI would like to know, too. They are supposed to keep tabs on the Klan, which is officially listed as a "subversive organization" by the federal government.

The Klan itself is not illegal, although some of the activities are. If they threaten someone on the phone, or in person, complaints can be signed against them.

This is one reason organizers stay in the shadows. Another reason is the key to Klan tactics — fear of the unknown. The Klan exists on hatred, fear and ignorance.

They represent the worst traits of the human race, the supremacist philosophy which undercuts the concept of equality.

The Klan hates not only blacks, but Jews, Indians, Chinese and any other group which, in their opinion, is not "purely white."

The Klan has existed since the Civil War, when the "night riders" took their revenge on the newly liberated blacks.

In the south more than a decade ago, they were still active, burning their crosses, riding the roads and terrorizing anyone who dared defy them.

In Southwestern Virginia, nobody dared buck the Klan because they controlled the politicians and counted the county sheriffs among their membership.

Now they are riding again, trying to expand their influence and hoping to incite hatred and fear from the ignorance of people. Their attempts to organize in this area will work like this:

If enough people return the application forms to the headquarters in Metairie, La., their names will be turned over to the fascists in the area and a chapter of the Klan will be born.

They hope to draw people who hate busing or to prey on whatever racial hatred still exists in our community. We hope they will fail, because maybe the people here don't need white robes, burning crosses and hatred as an outlet for their frustrations.

Maybe the people in this area will refuse to deal with cowards who hide behind hoods and spout their warnings in anonymous phone calls and mailings.

Maybe we no longer need to hate our fellow man.

Venice text book vote is July 21

Residents of Venice School District 3 will vote July 21 on a proposal to abolish free textbooks.

Date of the election was set in a resolution approved by the Venice School Board in a regular meeting Thursday night.

School Superintendent Robert Vickers said voting will be in two precincts, one embracing the area inside the city limits of Venice and the other made up of all of the area outside the city limits.

Approval of the referendum resolution followed discussion of the proposal in previous meetings, in which board members noted the elimination of the cost for free text books would save the district from $12,000 to $16,000 and would assist the district in meeting a series of pressing financial problems.

The Venice school district is confronted with a deficit of more than $600,000 in this year's operations.

Vickers noted the district has provided free textbooks for 40 years, the program having been approved by referendum in 1938.

Board members discussed plans for the purchase of a new school bus. One bid received from Padfield Equipment Co. for $17,648 was received and was referred to the finance committee for study. Vickers said he and several board members expect to inspect the vehicle within the next week.

Board members were informed that two employees hired under the Work Incentive program have been laid off because the district has not received a salary reimbursement since last November.

He said the district had been employing a teacher aide and a custodian under the program. Their salaries are paid by federal funds.

Vickers said no schedule of fees for text books has yet been worked out. Such a schedule probably will be discussed in the July 12 School Board meeting, he said.

July gardening

By CHRIS DOLL

Area Garden Adviser

Gardening in July means harvest time for many crops, maintenance of all growing crops, and the planting of some fall vegetables. It is still a busy month for gardeners and here are some of the expected happenings:

Enjoy home-grown sweet corn. In general, the shorter the time from field to table, the better the flavor.

Early-season varieties are good, but not as good as the mid-season varieties yet to come. Home gardeners have time to make another planting or two for fall harvest.

Side-dress long-season crops with nitrogen (33-0-0 or other formulations) at the rate of 1 pound per 100 feet of row. Keep the fertilizer off the foliage. Irrigate or cultivate immediately following the treatment.

Grapes grow vigorously in hot, humid weather, and this favors rapid growth of diseases. Healthy plants mean good fruit, so bi-weekly sprays of captan or ferbam should keep diseases in check. Add methoxychlor, sevin, or malathion for insect control at the same time.

Cabbage is maturing and it will store in the garden for a week or two. Splitting of mature heads can be reduced by using a spade to cut roots on two sides of the plant. This reduces water uptake from rain or irrigation.

Cabbage worms are most effectively controlled by using Bacillus thuringiensis, a non-toxic bacterial spray sold as Dipel and Thuricide. Use according to directions on the package.

The second peach borer spray is due July 10. Mix carbaryl (Sevin) at 3 tablespoons per gallon and spray the trunks and crotches thoroughly.

Tomatoes may show early blight and blossom-end rot. Early blight is when the lower leaves show spotting, turn yellow and drop off; spray or dust with tomato fungicides. Blossom-end rot infections appear when ripening; mulching is the best control.

Keep trees, plants, and gardens watered as needed. Apply enough water to soak into the root zone rather than very light waterings. Remember, an inch of water normally moistens six inches of soil, and it takes 0.6 gallons of water per square foot to equal an inch of rain.

Cucumber vine wilt this year is generally from bacterial wilt. This disease is carried in the bodies of cucumber beetles and the plants are inoculated when the beetles feed on the cucumber plants. Kill the beetles before they feed by pesticide applications on 5-7 day intervals, and the wilt will be prevented.

Make another planting of cucumbers, summer squash, and snap beans early in the month. Fall garden crops of beans, broccoli, cabbage, spinach, and turnips can be made late in the month.

Harvest onions when the tops have fallen over. Begin the curing process by undercutting the bulbs and leaving them lay for 24-48 hours. Then tie in bundles of 10-15 onions and cure by hanging in a dry sheltered area.

Spray ripening peaches and plums with either benomyl, captan, or sulfur every week to reduce brown rot (the soft rot of ripening fruits) at harvest time.

Harvest fruits for dessert. Blackberries, blueberries, summer apples, apricots, peaches and plums make up the fruit list for the month.

Spray black raspberry plants and sour cherry trees with a fungicide immediately after harvest to control late season fungus diseases.

HOUSE BURGLARIZED Helen Kachuba, 1300 Granite Ave., discovered that between 4:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Thursday two cameras, a $40 Polaroid land camera valued at $40 and an Ansco camera valued at $18 were taken from her house. Two bedrooms and the kitchen were ransacked.

GC schools experiencing bid shortage

Difficulty in receiving bids for several items, particularly small items, was a topic of concern at Tuesday night's Granite City Board of Education meeting.

Tully Heubner, director of business affairs for the school district, said he feels the school district should make every effort to obtain competitive bids and then should try to honor the lowest bids, even if the prices are slightly higher than the retail prices in the area.

"If we are going to get competitive bids in the future, I feel we should select the lowest bid. One company took the time and the money to bid for this and I feel we should pay it from that company that went to the effort to respond to the bid call," Heubner said about one proposed purchase.

He was speaking about a sole bid from Kendall Appliance to provide an electric range for $230 and two compact refrigerators for the pre-school laboratory for $260 each, a total bid of $550.

He noted the identical refrigerators are available from K-Mart for $198 each and from Central Hardware for $216. The school district could save $62 by purchasing the refrigerators from K-Mart, but K-Mart did not participate in the bidding process, he added.

"As you will recall, this year we have had difficulty in getting local appliance dealers to bid on our appliance needs. On April 16, this bid was submitted to eight vendors," Heubner explained.

Of the eight, only Kendall Appliance submitted a bid. To determine if the price quoted was a reasonable price, K-Mart, Central Hardware and Tipton Appliances were asked their prices in a telephone solicitation.

The board agreed with Heubner's recommendation to honor the only bid received, even if the refrigerators could have been purchased at a lower cost.

Several other purchases approved by the board

Tuesday night were on the basis of the only bid submitted.

Butler Floor Co. was awarded a contract for $1,749 to supply and install carpeting and tile in two portable classroom buildings recently moved to Logan School.

Ron Landman, maintenance director, explained, "The original bid was to be opened June 4. Due to inadequate response, it was rebid and opened on June 25. The only bidder was Butler Floor Co. I would recommend that Butler be awarded this work on the basis it is the only bid received."

Also purchased on the basis of the only bid received were $3,267 worth of small items for the home economics department from Nasco, Inc., which specializes in providing such items for schools.

Heubner told the board, "As you are aware, for the last several years, we have been purchasing our home economics supply needs from Nasco, Inc. We have attempted to bid these items in the past and Nasco was the only company that responded to our request."

"The home economics supplies to be purchased would be those necessary for both high schools and the three junior high schools," he added. He explained the items included pots and pans, spatulas, irons, mixers, small utensils and miscellaneous kitchen items. "We have tried to bid for several years. Nasco is a very competitive company. Bidding is expensive and you have some 30-cent items and $1 items here. For the more expensive items, they will take the time to bid, but for the 30-cent items, we just can't get the people to do it," Heubner concluded.

Board Member David Partney added, "It just bothers me. I don't know why we can't get people to bid."

A review of the meeting's agenda, however, showed lively bidding for industrial education supplies, food products, office machines, lumber, repairs and construction supplies.

Deans given top honors by Pontoon Lions Club

The Pontoon Beach Lions Club awarded both the Medal of Honor and the Citizen of the Year awards to Chester and Thelma Dean of Pontoon Beach during the club's third annual community awards dinner and installation of officers Thursday night in the Lion's Den.

Outgoing President Larry McKee presented the awards to the couple in recognition of their achievements during the past year, including the saving of the lives of Lion Vince Thorpe and his wife in the Thorpe's home Nov. 15, 1978.

The Thorpe were overcome by fumes escaping from a gas heater in their home and Chester Dean investigated when he could not reach them on the telephone. He found them and called the rescue squad of the Long Lake Volunteer Fire Department. "Doctors said, however, another hour and both would have been dead," McKee related and added, "It is for this action and concern shown for his fellow man that we present the Medal of Valor to Chester and Thelma Dean."

The award and the citizen of the year award were given to both, "because behind every good man, there is a good woman," McKee said.

Others receiving awards were: Earl Arnold, chief of the Long Lake Fire Department for heading "the best in the state"; Mike Karlechik and John Miller for the work of the Long Lake Junior Firemen; the Pontoon Beach Police Department, and the Madison Lion's Club for helping charter the Pontoon Beach Lions Club and help in its growth.

Cindy Niepert, newly-elected president of the village's Lioness Club, was given a plaque for her service and Donald Patrick, Lions Region Four, Zone Three chairman, was presented the Lion of the Year Award for his work and dedication.

Patrick, Jerry W. Henderson, Robert L. Carroll and Vince Thorpe were recognized for being the four who held the club together when membership dropped and a large photo of the four at a meeting was presented to be displayed wherever the club meets in the future.

New officers installed were: George Goodwin, president; David Schermer, vice-president; Bob Barton, second vice-president; Dean, treasurer; John Young, tail twister; and Henderson and Richard McIntosh, directors.

$22,000 damage in explosion, fire

Fire did an estimated $22,000 damage to the structure, according to a Long Lake fireman, at a house and garage fire at 7:25 p.m. Friday, at 21 Hanson Drive in Arlington Heights.

The house belongs to Terrill Chatkin who was not at home when the fire started.

According to a fire department spokesman, the firemen were able to confine the fire to the garage area adjoining the one-story brick home.

Two 10 gallon and two 20 gallon propane gas tanks were in the garage and it is believed at least one of the smaller two exploded, causing the fire.

Chatkin had two hot air balloons in the garage, one valued at $2,000 and the other valued at $6,000.

Twenty two Long Lake firemen responded to the scene with two pumpers, one tanker, and their emergency truck. The firemen were at the scene for two hours.

Full Approval for training of planners

The master of science degree in city and regional planning at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has been given full recognition by the National Education Development Committee of the American Planners Association for a five-year period.

Recognition by the National Education Development Committee of the American Planners Association for a five-year period is comparable to accreditation or certification in other professions, according to James Bridwell, chairman of the department of earth science, geography and planning.

Established in 1971, the graduate program in planning was given conditional recognition by the American Institute of Planning, with provisional recognition continued on a yearly basis. Two years ago the American Institute of Planning merged with the American Society of Planning Officials, becoming the American Planners Association.

Data documenting the degree of autonomy existing in the planning program was submitted to the committee of the newly-formed organization, resulting in full recognition for the program. Only a few universities and colleges in the country offer a recognized graduate degree program in planning, Bridwell said.

The number of students graduating from the program is relatively small, he added, averaging between 17 and 20 planners.

"We have more requests for people to fill positions than we have graduates," he said. Male students continue to make up the biggest percentage of the student population within the program; over the years, the proportion of female students has been consistently small.

Most students graduating from the program remain in the area served by the university. However, SIUE planners also are scattered across the country, in Oregon, Colorado, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Arkansas, Texas, Tennessee, Florida, and Washington, D.C. and there are several SIUE alumni working as city and regional planners in Canada.

Planning students at SIUE have the opportunity to plunge into the mainstream of the profession early through the internship portion of their studies and work-study program.

Providing classroom learning in the community marketplace has produced benefits for everyone, Bridwell believes. By working with real problems, students are able to relate what they have learned in their textbooks and in classroom lectures with what is happening to them in the field.

Bridwell feels that a need for careful and thorough planning for urban and regional areas will continue. "Urban and regional problems are sufficiently complex in scope, and deal with such a wide variety of groups, that the need for broadly trained planners will continue to grow," he concludes.

Woman abducted, thrown from car

Sonia McIntyre, 20, of 2606 W. 20th St., reported to the Madison County Sheriff's department that she was abducted and assaulted, at 3:30 a.m. Friday.

According to authorities, she said she was walking on Illinois 200 about 1/4 mile south of Bond Road when she was grabbed and forced to get into a car.

The car stopped at the former Moto station at the south end of the McCambridge viaduct.

As she was trying to get out of the car the man sped away on Harrison Street into Eagle Park, throwing her 200 yards, she told deputies.

"The man was described as six feet tall, about 200 pounds, wearing brown hair and driving an old dark blue, two-door Chevrolet with Illinois plates."

Sheriff's deputies searched the Eagle Park area for the auto, but were unable to locate it.

SHOOTING GUN

Venice police are holding a 38-year-old Venice man pending court appearance today. He is charged with unlawful use of a weapon, no firearms identification and criminal damage to property. He allegedly was shooting a pistol at 5 p.m. at Douglas and Weaver streets. One of the bullets allegedly hit a parked car.

Robbers tie and gag man, then steal car

Jerome D. Johnson, 2436 Lincoln Ave., was bound and gagged by two men armed with knives who stole Johnson's car and $2 from his wallet shortly after 12:30 a.m. today.

Police were called to 1813 Pontoon Road, where residents said a man with his hands tied behind his back had come to their door seeking help.

Officers said Johnson had his hands bound with his leather belt, had part of his pants around his neck and was barefoot.

He said he left Jacobsmeyer's Tavern, 2401 Edwards St., about 12:30 a.m. today, and was about to get in his car when two men, about 22 years old, approached him and asked for a ride to Edwardsville.

He agreed and when they got to Pontoon Road at Terrace Lane, one man asked him to turn onto Terrace Lane, he reported.

As they got to 14 Terrace Lane, the man in the rear seat wrapped one arm around Johnson's neck and held a knife to his throat with the other hand.

The other robber, who was in the front seat, held another knife to Johnson's right side and ordered him to stop the car, he related.

They then forced him from the car, choked him, pushed him to the rear of 14 Terrace Lane and bound him with his belt. His shoelace strings were tied to his hands and his socks were put in his mouth and held in place by strips of his shirt which were tied around his neck and mouth, Johnson told officers.

They then removed $2 from his wallet, took a package of his cigarettes and said they were going to take his car to Indiana, he related.

They left in his black vinyl over white 1970 Ford LTD two-door car and struck something as they left, he said. Johnson reported he could see a dent in the driver's door when the car passed 14 Terrace Lane after turning around. It went west on Pontoon Road.

One robber was described as more than 6 feet tall, weighing about 200 pounds, having dark hair and wearing a black tee shirt and cutoff blue jeans.

The other had blond fuzzy hair, no shirt, cutoff jeans and boots and had a tattoo on his left shoulder of a cross or swastika.

Officers found the package of cigarettes taken from Johnson along Terrace Lane and his shoes and personal papers from his wallet in the yard where he was robbed. It was reported.

Area police departments were alerted to watch for his car, but it had not been found by this morning, police said.

Our nation— under siege?

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN
(Mr. Harrigan is a widely known writer and speaker on defense, industrial and economic subjects. His articles appear in over 100 publications.)

As the final year of the 1970s wears away, the American people are developing a growing awareness of the severe problems they face. Unhappily, it's been all downhill for the United States in the '70s. Unless the nation gets better leadership, conditions will worsen as the decade comes to an end.

At home, runaway inflation is a grim fact of life. This inflation is caused by huge federal deficits. In 1979, the planned deficit will be $38 billion.

The increased cost of imported oil will add to the country's foreign trade deficit. That's only part of the picture, however.

The Administration is pressing for a relaxation of trade barriers without consideration of the fact that manufactured goods are pouring into the United States from countries with controlled and subsidized industries. Mr. Carter's embrace of Red China will most probably lead to a surge of Chinese Communist products into the American market.

As inflation worsens, the Administration almost certainly will call for mandatory economic controls. If these are approved by Congress, the economy will be weakened, for controls always result in shortages and misallocations of resources. More than likely, the Administration will seek to deny productive citizens and companies adequate incentives.

On the other hand, the tax revolt is bound to continue. The Congressional elections made clear the existence of strong grassroots opposition to bureaucratic empire-building, massive wealth transfers to welfare, and provision of "public services" that provide employment to the new class of public officials.

The middle-class taxpayer and the bureaucratic elite are on a collision course in America today.

The deterioration of the American economy, as a result of anti-wealth creation and anti-market forces, is likely to be better understood by the public in 1979.

There is growing understanding at the grassroots that the richest nation on earth has been undermined by the excessive cost of government, the burden of bureaucracy and the anti-productivity actions of such bureaus as the Federal Trade Commission and the Environmental Protection Agency.

This also is a year in which foreign policy will figure large in the thinking of the American people. Americans are keenly aware of the waning of the country's power and of the concessions made to hostile states of all sizes.

The most important foreign policy-defense decision will involve the SALT II strategic arms agreement, with the Soviet Union. The Administration now is hard at work developing a public relations program to sell the American people on an arms agreement that will leave the United States in a position of military inferiority. Paul H. Nitze, former undersecretary of Defense, says that the present draft treaty will increase Soviet hard-target kill capacity 10 times.

The United States is under siege as the year moves along. It's under siege from the Soviets, who are engaged in a massive arms buildup; from the Chinese Communists, who are intent on America providing the equipment an money to modernize Red China's factories at the expense of America's taxpayers; from Third World nations, who want a larger share of America's wealth; and from those in our own country who are opposed to nuclear power and to a strengthening of America's industrial facilities on a free enterprise basis.

The American republic is approaching a momentous time of decision as the decade approaches its end. The year 1979 is a time for the American people to get a firm grasp on the survival issues facing the nation.

JEWELRY JOTTINGS

By RUSS WALKER

The value of a ruby depends to a great extent upon its color. The finest rubies are a deep purple-red color, sometimes called "pigeon's blood." In hardness, the ruby is second only to the diamond.

The ruby is the birthstone for July and is second to nothing else as an elegant gift of lasting value.

Ordinance specifies use of insurance fees

An ordinance that will permit Granite City to divert its receipts of 2 percent fire insurance fees to the payment of claims for disability or injury obligations to firemen was adopted by the Granite City Council last week under its home rule authority.

The use of the 2 percent fee for such purposes is expected to help the city meet the costs of claims such as that of Fireman Robert Harris who has won appeals court rulings under which the city now owes Harris $47,000 as the difference between the fireman's disability pension and his full salary since Harris retired on disability pension in 1972.

The fees consist of payments of 2 percent of gross revenues on fire insurance sold to Illinois residents by fire insurance companies based outside Illinois.

The fees are paid to the Illinois Municipal League which distributes the money to cities and villages. City Clerk Robert Stevens said the annual payment to Granite City is about $48,000. In recent years, the money received by Granite City has gone into the general fund and customarily distributed from that account to the firemen's pension fund.

City Attorney Lance Callis said City Council members last week that the Harris case should be considered closed since the Illinois Supreme Court has rejected an appeal by the city of a lower court ruling that Harris is entitled to his full salary for the disability period.

"There's nowhere else to go and the claim will have to be paid," Callis told the aldermen.

Stevens suggested that the city may be able to make the payment from the next payment of fire insurance fees which customarily is made in July.

Nationally known leader begins duties as pastor

"Praise the Lord!"

That is the attitude of Tri-City Park Tabernacle members, whose new pastor, Dr. Thurnace York, began his duties here last week. He has been one of the top leaders of the nationally televised PTL (Praise the Lord) Club.

The local church, once located in the Tri-City Park subdivision, is located in ultra-modern religious facilities at Clark Avenue and Maryville Road. Now that Maryville Road has been widened and extended, the building is much easier to reach, and there is a better view of the church's glass-enclosed front entrance.

Dr. York hopes to continue some of his outside activities while at the same time emphasizing varied programs and growth at the Granite City church.

While he enjoyed his primarily administrative PTL duties, he looks forward to the multi-faceted pastoral duties with unceasing pleasure and anticipation. A preacher since the age of 17, he also has been active in conducting Better Life Seminars through the York Foundation, a non-profit, non-sectarian, educational, religious and cultural organization that seeks to develop "better life concepts and practices."

Dr. York relates, "I was hired directly by Jim Bakker, president of the Heritage Village Church and Missionary Fellowship, Inc., commonly known as the PTL Club, to help pioneer a new concept of schooling in media and communication coupled with Christian evangelism."

"After leaving my nationally-demanded pastoral and personal development seminars, known as Better Life Seminars and based in California, I was assigned to Charlotte, N.C., and helped lay the administrative guidelines as dean of students of the School of Evangelism and Communications called Heritage Academy."

"Later, President Bakker and the executive board of operations selected and promoted me to vice-president of PTL in charge of education (university and academy) for the mother organization and also as vice-president of the Heritage university proper, directly responsible to Pres. Bakker."

"In January 1979, during a total reorganizational process of PTL, I was selected by Pres. Bakker and promoted to senior vice-president of administrative services and attached directly to the president's office to assist in carrying out administrative and personal responsibilities at hand.

"I also served on the daily management team to direct the total organization as a division leader over the departments of Personnel Purchasing, Public Relations, Legal, and Creative Services (art, writers, photography), was a spokesman for the ministry to the media-press, and assisted the TV personalities of PTL."

"I entertained the dignitaries who were guests of the president and the PTL show, and was available for presidential special projects until a general manager could be hired. The organization is still in the process of reorganizing."

The Fort Worth Press a year ago commented that, "bringing to the public the fruits of his eventful, varied ministry, Dr. York draws from the resources of his experiences in the fields of education, mental health and religion to conduct family and personal life seminars to help people better actualize their faith and abilities in order to cope with their frustrations and life problems."

"Dr. York was formerly with the California Mental Health Department in Fresno, Calif. His preparation for his work in education, Dr. York studied at universities in Canada, Oklahoma, New York and California, along with seminary studies in South Carolina and Illinois."

"He holds ten educational certificates in regular, exceptional, and administrative areas of education."

"After ten years of teaching in California he joined the Buffalo public schools in New York to administer the establishment of a demonstration center for the training of teachers of the mentally handicapped."

"Three major colleges in Buffalo, as well as the Buffalo Board of Education, were served through this facility."

"As a result of his successful work, he came to the attention of the neighboring Niagara Falls Board of Education and was offered the position of supervisor of the exceptional Education Department of the Niagara Falls public school system."

"In his administration of this department, Dr. York became known for many educational 'firsts' in the field, and had the pleasure of seeing his department win a Hyman Port Award for outstanding achievement in the education of the mentally handicapped."

"After some years, Dr. York returned to California to help establish a pilot state project under the joint efforts of the Fresno Mental Health department and the Fresno Unified School District for treatment of psychological and behavior disorders among adolescents."

"In addition to skills gained through secular studies and observation, Dr. York has a spiritual insight into personality problems, gained through activities as qualified counselor in public detention institutions, YMCA, Youth for Christ, Mental Health Department, and other community sponsored activities."

"For many years, Dr. York has ministered interdenominationally among churches and church-related agencies."

"He has been featured in leadership conferences and workshops both nationally and internationally."

"He has contributed to numerous publications. As a result of his experience, travels and ministry in 35 nations, Dr. York was elected fellow of the Royal Geographical Society of London, England, an honor conferred on, but few ministers."

"Currently, Dr. York has directed his ministry and outreach in the form of Better Life Seminars in various denominations, clubs and educational centers all over the world."

"His ministry is distinguished by its variety of approach."

"A skilled and resourceful speaker as well as counselor, Dr. York is a musician of accomplishment and adds to his ministry the attraction of a baritone voice and an instrumental versatility."

"He is a professional recording artist whose recording placed third on top ten on a listening selection poll."

"He is also an accomplished platform artist, using colored and black-light chalk to highlight with artistic presentation, the message he is about to set forth."

"Dr. York founded the All-Religious Art Exhibitions in Central California, which still attracts artists of all ages to participate yearly. He appeared weekly for several years in inspirational telecasting with outlets in New York, California and Virginia."

"He presently is engaged in a weekly television program called 'Understanding Yourself'."

"Some of Dr. York's participations are as follows: salutatorian, honor scholarships, dean's list, president, Western California Teacher's Association."

"Creator of a Ministerial Extension Home Study Program for his denomination, supporter and teacher of the first Western Chalk Artists School located in California."

"Organizer of the first All-Religious Art Exhibition in California and editor of the Church Educational Agency Junior Teacher's Magazine for his denomination."

"He holds membership in teacher organizations, the Western New York Communications Council, the Council of Association on Mental Deficiency, the American Association of School Administrators, Rotary International."

"The National Stewardship Commission of the National Association of evangelicals, a staff member of 'The Answer', and a commentator on a new personal counseling TV release called 'Understanding Yourself' from the Bay area of California."

Look for this when you look for a home.

These days, a home that's rated tops in energy-efficiency is what smart homebuyers are looking for. But until recently a house that's been upgraded to be energy-efficient might look just like any other house.

That's changed. Now anyone—homebuyers, neighbors, realtors—can distinguish a home that uses energy wisely. The National Energy Watch decal is the difference. It says that a home (1) is properly insulated to today's high standards, (2) is weatherstripped, caulked and equipped with storm doors and windows and (3) uses energy-efficient appliances and heating equipment.

Right now a team of Energy Use Advisors from Illinois Power is calling on homes in this area. Our representative will make an energy audit of your home at no charge. He'll make recommendations as needed to bring your home up to N.E.W. standards. When your home qualifies, you'll be awarded the N.E.W. decal. It's the symbol of a home that's worth more because it uses energy wisely.

Please welcome our advisor when he calls. If you'd like to make sure you'll get an energy audit please phone our office.

Glen Carbon runs and runs... and loses

By DOUG IRVIN
for the Press-Record
O'FALLON — Despite ten hits and ten stolen bases, Glen Carbon Post 435 fell to O'Fallon last night 7-3 in a rescheduled game from last Thursday. Glen Carbon led 3-1 until the home team awoke with two consecutive three-run innings and shut Glen Carbon down to four base hits in their last three scoreless innings.

Carbon's league record to 8-5, in fifth place one-half game behind Tri-City.

The make-up game was dull until the third inning except for a double play executed by Glen Carbon in the bottom of the second. Jeff Poigne, O'Fallon's catcher, hit a fly ball to right field with a runner on first, and threw the ball to Glen Carbon's first baseman Greg Faulkner for a double play. In the bottom of the third inning, O'Fallon went on the RBI's during the contest. Glen Carbon was quick to retaliate with three runs in the top of the fourth stanza. Tom Greco walked and stole second. Larry Burns singled and stole second which put two men on. Greco crossed the off-white home plate to tie the score at one on a passed ball. Jim Robinson singled, putting men on at the corners. As Robinson attempted to steal second, Burns went home. The throw went to second where Robinson was safe, 2-1. Robinson scored as Faulkner hit to the shortstop for a fielder's choice, 3-1.

Unfortunately for Glen Carbon, their 3-1 lead did not last as long as they had hoped. O'Fallon, with three hits in the fifth, scored three runs to put them on top, 4-3. At the start of the bottom of the sixth, Glen Carbon made a pitching change.

Bob Ford, who had started, had become tired. He struck out five, walked four, and gave up six hits in the five innings in which he pitched. Bob Batey was sent to the mound to relieve Ford. Batey gave up two hits, walked one, and struck out one during the three outs he

Gundaker overcomes Myers to win Burger King Special

By JEFF EAVES
for the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — After last week's rain-out of the Burger King Special, Kevin Gundaker of St. Louis, Mo., driving his 1977 Gundaker Relator's Camaro, took the lead from Bill Myers on lap 9 to win his first late-model feature victory of the year at the Tri-City Speedway Saturday night.

Gundaker, who is currently fifth in points this year, started on the fifth row inside but his Camaro down underneath of Myers and C.

C. Corbin both of E. Alton, Ill.

The race was halted by a red flag on the fourth lap of the 30-lap feature.

Bill Myers, who had taken the lead from the start, was being pressured by Corbin until Corbin lost control of his car and started to spin in the third turn, causing an 11-car pileup.

But only four cars were out of the race for good. After the mishap, Myers brought the field down for the green with an exciting race with Myers, Corbin, Gundaker and Mike Wallace of Arnold, Mo.

Gundaker went on to take the lead away from Myers on the ninth lap to claim the victory. Wallace, who was on Gundaker's tail, spun on lap 13. But with some fine driving by the 20-year-old, he recovered and finished second. C. C. Corbin finished third over Bill Myers, Dick Taylor of Springfield, Ill., Mike Munson of Chauncey, Ill., Bill Laycock of G.C., Gary Gerstner of Breese, Ill., and Mike Tobin of Springfield, Ill.

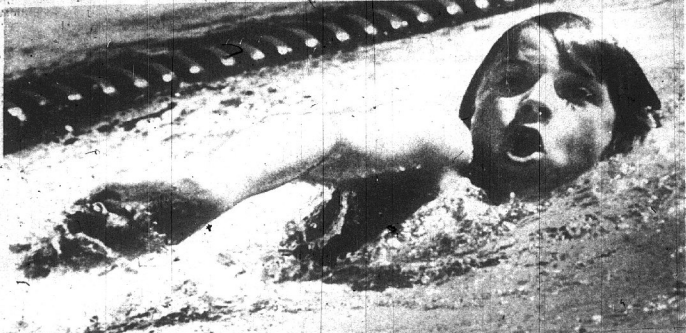

Mike Munson of Chauncey, Ill., won the first heat over Dan Pasovic of Collinsville, Ill., Bobby Regot of St. Charles, Mo., and Bill Laycock of G.C.

Bill Myers won the second heat over Mike Wallace, Randy Booth of Springfield, Ill., and Pat King of St. Charles, Mo.

The third heat was taken by C. C. Corbin over Joe Ross of Mechanicsburg, Ill., Kevin Gundaker and Dick Taylor.

Thank you, CV Tri-City explodes to demolish Post 365...

By KEVIN ALLEN
of the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — Kirk Champion, coach of Tri-City's American Legion baseball team, has been telling people all season one of the big reasons Tri-City has had problems is because the middle of his line-up has failed to produce.

If anyone wasn't convinced, Friday's game here against Collinsville was proof. Tri-City won 12-4, on nine hits. Six of those hits came from Tri-City's number three, four, five and six hitters.

"We've had more hits in some games," Champion said. "But we the hits better tonight in the middle of our order."

Along with Tri-City's nine hits, Collinsville contributed four errors. Tri-City's four runs in the first inning were all unearned. That statistic though, was even more encouragement for Champion.

"So many times when you start believing you're going to make a mistake, that's exactly what will happen. When you get 40 chances in a game you're bound to make mistakes."

In other words, when things start bad, they usually get worse. That's the way the game went for Collinsville.

The first Tri-City batter of the night, Kevin Sykes, reached base on Collinsville's Jay Dowling's error. Sykes' fly ball to right was dropped by Dowling, allowing Sykes to reach second.

Sykes went to third on an infield out, then scored when Mike Hefflin, at tempting to pick off Tri-

City's Bob Stegemeier threw the ball away.

Stegemeier stole third, and scored on Jeff Parker's single, the first for Tri-City. Tri-City's Jim Louis followed with a walk, then another Dowling error sent Parker home and Louis to third, where he scored on an infield out.

Two hits and three errors produced a four-run deficit for Collinsville going into the second inning.

Collinsville stayed reasonably close the next two innings, as it traded single runs with Tri-City in both the second and third. But a four-run Tri-City fourth pushed the game into one of those situations where you hear people saying, "I once saw a team come from 10 runs back in the bottom of the ninth."

For Collinsville, unfortunately, this wouldn't be one of those frequently remembered games. It did manage to cut the lead to 10-4 in the fifth, but Tri-City came back with two more runs in the sixth, to all but end any come-back hopes. Tri-City's Dave Weil was on the mound to start the game. He went four and two-thirds innings, allowing Collinsville all four of its runs.

Weil was followed to the mound by Al Yount who finished the fifth, Champion brought on young Randy Cann to mop up in the sixth and seventh.

Cann's two-inning performance was marred only by two Tri-City errors, but he allowed no other base runners. "Cann, for a big sophomore, throws as hard as anyone on our team," Champion said.

Collinsville's first run of the inning was driven in by McDaniel's sacrifice fly to short center. The four runs gave Collinsville a 5-1 lead.

A perfectly executed double steal was responsible for Collinsville's first run. In the second inning, with runners at first and third, Lambert and Throm combined to steal the run.

Fred McClary scored for Collinsville in the fifth on a double, stolen base, and an infield out.

Two seventh inning runs

COLLINSVILLE — American Legion baseball team was in the best possible shape, considering the circumstances.

Mike Hefflin, Collinsville's best hitter, was at bat. His team was down by one run in the seventh inning. He was the classic pitcher-batter confrontation.

This time the pitcher came out on top. Glen Carbon's pitcher Keith Burton got Hefflin to pop up, nailing down the 5-4 win for Glen Carbon, and salvaging the nightcap of a double header. Collinsville won the opener 8-1.

The two games were a contrast in style. Collinsville, which has had defensive trouble this year, played flawlessly in the opener. Its pitcher Jeff McDaniel, who went the full seven innings, allowed Glen Carbon only six hits and one run.

That one run came in the third inning. Mike Robertson scored after he singled, went to second on an infield hit, to third on a wild pitch, and scored on Tom Greco's infield single.

Glen Carbon's first-game pitcher Greg Faulkner had worse luck. He allowed seven hits, but they produced seven runs. "He just didn't look good," Glen Carbon coach Art Jovi said. "He just had an off night, but I guess he's due for one, he's won four in a row."

Collinsville's big inning came in the fourth. Four runs crossed the plate, and three of those were driven in by Barry Wilson.

Wilson hit a home run, but it wasn't fence-crashing.

Wilson, with Keith Throm and Rich Lambert ahead of him, circled the bases when Glen Carbon's center fielder Larry Burns tried a diving shoe-out catch of Wilson's fly.

To Collinsville's advantage, the ball bounced over Burns to the wall. "We were talking about the outfield pulling around for different batters," Jovi said. "We felt the center fielder was out of position. The ball just fell in though. There's really nothing you can do about it. We just didn't come back after that."

BMX races at Collinsville

COLLINSVILLE — More than trophies and awards will be at stake when hundreds of bicycle riders take to two St. Louis area tracks in the Banquet War of the Stars II on July 7 and 8. Family pride will be on the line, too.

Competing in the two-day BMX motocross bicycle classic sponsored by Banquet Foods will be five pairs of brothers, all from the St. Louis area, who are nationally ranked in the age-level bicycle program.

The brothers scheduled to pedal in the races are Gary and Bobby Anzalone (13 and 15 age classes), Larry and David Conn (12 and 14 age classes), Bobbie and Tony Faldutl (15 and 16 age classes), Robbie and David Guinn (7 and 10 age classes) and Craig and Jeff Winn (8 and 11 age classes).

The competition will take place on Saturday, July 7 at the Collinsville BMX Track in the Collinsville Bicycle Park, Ill., and on Sunday, July 8 at the Northwest County YMCA Bonzai BMX Track on McKelvey Road east of Interstate 270. Many Granite City youngsters will take part.

These youngsters will be racing against competitors from as far away as New Jersey and Florida.

"I get really nervous in national competitions," says Larry Conn who is ranked seventh nationally in his age class. "So many of the guys come from states where they can race and practice year round." The St. Louis winners make this practice virtually impossible. "But," says Larry, "if my grades are okay I race every day I can."

These St. Louis area youngsters will be pitting their skills against their national counterparts in 12 age classes: 6-year-olds and under, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 and older, and an open division.

Registration will be held from 8 to 11 a.m. at both the Collinsville and the Bonzai race tracks. Races will begin at noon each day and trophies will be awarded at the end of competition by Banquet Foods which is headquartered in St. Louis.

Last year's event, also held in the St. Louis area, drew a record 619 youngsters.

To be eligible for competition, each child must have proof of age, special safety helmet, long pants and a long sleeve shirt. A parent must be present at the time of registration and all bicycles must meet designated safety standards.

Bicycle motocross (BMX) is the name given to specially manufactured bicycles with high handlebars and 20-inch diameter wheels. These specially designed bicycles can cost up to $600 each.

The Banquet War of the Stars II, co-hosted by Banquet Foods Corporation and the Northwest County YMCA, is part of the national BMX circuit and the culmination of a full year's racing for many of the competitors.

The public is invited to attend both races on July 7 and 8. General admission is 50 cents and the races start at noon each day.

Paddlers to give lessons

GRANITE CITY — The Paddlers' Swimming Club of Granite City will be offering summer lessons for area youngsters.

The sign-up for registration will be Thursday, July 7 from 9 to 11 a.m. at Paddlers, Johnson Road in Granite City. The first session of lessons will begin July 9 at 9 a.m. The fee for the lessons is $10 for members and $15 for non-members. The session will last two weeks. A second session of lessons will be held later in the summer.

Doug Rains goes for 'gusto'...

DOUG RAINS ... in Tri-City days

By TOMSCHOCKER
for the Press-Record
MITCHELL — There's one guy around who doesn't think of beer when he says "Budweiser." He thinks of baseball.

How can Budweiser beer have any connotation with the game of baseball? To pitcher Doug Rains of the Mitchell Athletic Club in the Inter-City League, it does. He likes it so much he has gone as far as to pitch with a shirt that has the Budweiser label on the front.

"It's really a comfortable shirt and it feels good," said Rains. When asked how he got the idea to wear that shirt his reply was, "I like the name, the taste of the beer and the looks of the label." Rains said that he has been wearing that shirt to pitch for the past two seasons of ball.

Could it bring him luck? "It's not a good luck charm, but every little thing helps," said Rains.

Rains was a three-year letterman at Granite City North, being picked to the all-district team his senior year and playing in a district All-Star game.

Graduating in 1978, Rains went to Jefferson Junior College in Hillsboro, Mo., where he had a 4.2 record as a varsity starter.

Having a love for the game, Rains joined the Tri-City Legion team for summer ball in 1978. Because of age qualifications he was forced to find another field to play on, so he joined up with Mitchell in 1979. "I had a lot of friends who were on the team and they asked me to come out," said Rains.

Rains said that Mitchell wasn't the only choice he had. "I had a chance to play for the Yankees of the Missouri collegiate League," said Rains. "But they travel a great deal and I needed money for school." Rains plays on Sundays with the Athletic Club and works for the YMCA as a Senior Camp Counselor during the week.

Mitchell, at this point in the season, is slumping with a 4-10 record. Can Rains talent and experience as a pitcher help the Athletic Club toward the playoffs? "If I have the season like I know I can," said Rains. "I believe I should be able to help them." Only time will tell.

Through his entire baseball years, Rains has been under the helm of a coach or manager. Joining Mitchell has brought a different atmosphere for him. Ken Crawford is the player-coach and the idea of your coach on the field with you is quite a change. "It's a lot different," said Rains.

"At first, Ken (Crawford) would let himself go until he got into real trouble, but now he is pulling himself sooner."

The Inter-City league season is at the half-way mark and the important final push is yet to come. Thoughts will soon turn to playoffs and the competition will be intense. "Right now I'm just thinking about making the playoffs," said Rains. "After that anyone could win the thing."

Rains is determined to pitch his team into the playoffs, but his pitching talents have not been long acquired. "I started pitching regularly my junior year in high school," said Rains. "I always had been a third baseman, pitching has been a second choice. My uncle was a good pitcher. I guess I started pitching more because of him." Doug's uncle is former SIUE standout, Granite Cityan, Don Rains.

The overwhelming joy of baseball for Rains started at a very early age. Five years old marked the initial experience in sandlot. "It seems like I have always been playing baseball," said Rains.

Besides hardball, Rains' talent in sports range to the bruising game of football. He has been playing with the pigskin since the tender age of four. Rains was a standout quarterback on the Steeler gridiron squad.

Playing baseball for that many years must have a devotion that goes beyond all means. Rains' explanation was simple. "I love baseball." Whether it be baseball or football, Doug Rains has a talent in the sporting world that is exceptional.

...while Sykes keeps improving

By Doug Irvin
for the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — Kevin Sykes still has a year left at South High School where he'll be Conrad "Babe" Champion's captain for the 1980 baseball squad. He has played ball at South for the three years that he has been there.

A rookie to the Legion ball club and in a slump, Kevin has and is leading the team in hitting. He has an average near the .310 mark.

"Sure," he said, "the guys are gonna kid ya about hitting best — they're bound to. It's all in fun. If they didn't tease me, I'd be worried," Kevin said. "It shows that they still have life in them."

Sykes, like all other guys, has had a dream of being a professional ball player. "I'd really like to see just how far I can go," said Kevin. "It's been a life-long dream. If I don't try to follow it, I'll always wonder if I could have accomplished it."

"Kevin is a competitor. He's good at second and that's where he'll play in Legion, in high school, and in junior college," said Tri-City's manager after defeating their arch-rival Glen Carbon Post 435.

"Tri-City and Glen Carbon is as intense of a rivalry as South and North," said the ball player. "It's still South and North only with different uniforms on."

"I never knew who he (Sykes) was until I saw him at one of my dad's games," admitted Kirk Champion. Kirk's father is South's baseball coach.

Kevin contests that sports help his grades in school. "By being involved in sports my mind is always working and I'm constantly thinking of things. I plan to go to SAC after I graduate from South to play ball and for computer engineering."

Kevin maintained a 4.0 average through his junior year at South and will complete his majors of history and English and his minors of science and business during his senior year.

He and Eldon Warfield, one of Tri-City's coaches, run the Granite City Park baseball school where they teach the fundamentals of baseball to kids from the age of six on up.

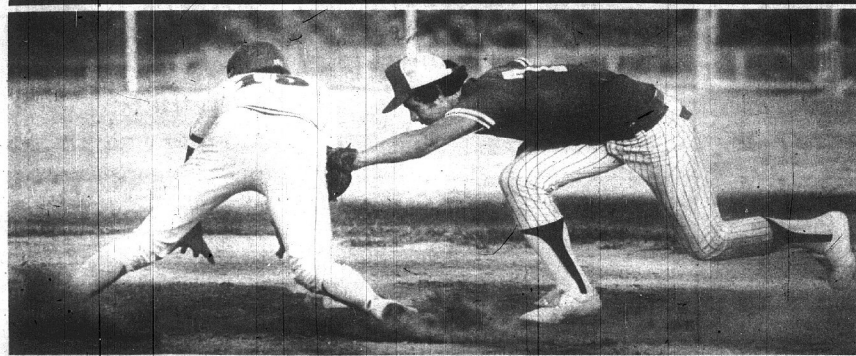

"Eldon and Kirk are ball players themselves and we (Tri-City) can relate to them in that way," said Kevin.

The current lighting situation is a controversial topic on which Kevin has some ideas. "If we get the lights, it'll help Granite City. Sure, it'll help Tri-City and South baseball, but also the community as well," the athlete continued. "The lights will allow night games which will bring more people out to the games and give people something to do after work."

"The lights will make it possible for Granite to host some post-season tournaments. That would bring teams and fans from out of town into Granite, who would spend their money in our motels and restaurants and

He's out!

Collinsville's Brad Paske (15) is tagged out by Glen Carbon second baseman Tom Greco Saturday night during the two teams' doubleheader in Collinsville. Even though Paske was out on this play, his teammates managed to win the first game 8-1. Glen Carbon, however, came back in the nightcap for a 5-4 victory. Last night, Glen Carbon lost 7-3 to O'Fallon.

 tossed. However with those two hits, O'Fallon was able to bring in three more runs, 7-3.

The top of the last proved to be too much for Glen Carbon as it failed to do anything about the difference in scores with the three hits they had.

Mike Robertson singled as did Tom Greco. Robertson, through a lack of communication with his coaches, was picked off at second base putting O'Fallon just one out away from victory.

Burns got a hit to put two runners back on. With a walk, Ford loaded the bases. The game ended with a fielder's choice off the bat of Robinson.

Sixteen bases were stole by the two teams in last night's game. Ten by Glen Carbon and six by O'Fallon. Of Glen Carbon's ten, six helped put their three runs on the board. Greco stole second before he scored and Burns stole both second and home during that fourth inning.

Ford and Robinson broke through with two runs in the fifth, and stole three in the sixth.

The loss puts Glen Carbon one and a half games out of first place and just one-half game behind rival, Tri-City Post 113. Edwardsville leads the division. Glen Carbon's next divisional game is this Thursday against Alton, which is tied for second, at Granite City High School North's field.

Glen Carbon manager Art Jovi was less than pleased. "That's what happens when you let a weaker team get ahead of you," said Jovi. "This is only their second win. We had no depth in our pitching. All of our pitchers were either sore or three yesterday (Saturday) at Collinsville. Ford was getting tired and Batey was the only other one that had ever done any hitting."

danger of duplicating its dying act of the first game. But Glen Carbon came back with a single run in the fifth, and three more in the sixth.

Doubles by Greco and Bob Ford scored the first two runs in the inning. Then Mike Hubbard beat out a slow grounder to the shortstop for the drive home of the winner. Greco's double was his fourth hit of the night, pulling him farther out of an almost season-long slump. "It was popping everything up before," Jovi said. "But he's making good contact now."

Collinsville's two runs in the fifth were both drives by Heflin's single. Heflin was thrown out at the plate when he tried to score from second after a Glen Carbon error.

In the sixth, Throm scored a single run for Collinsville, on an error by Glen Carbon's third baseman, a wild pitch, and a passed ball.

In the seventh, Collinsville, a run down, put the tying run on base when McClary's grounder hit second base. Heflin then popped out to end the game.

In Memoriam 33

In Loving memory of WILLIAM EDWARD FORSE, July 3, 1977. He has ended his wonderful program. The deepest, the strangest, the last. And into the school of the angels. With the answer forever has passed. How strange he should sleep so profoundly. So young, so unworn by the strife. While beside him, brimful of hope's nectar, Untouched stood the Goblet of life. God knew all about it, how noble, how gentle he was and how brave. How bright his possible future. Yet put him to sleep in his grave. God knew all about those who love him. How bitter the trial must be — And right through it all God loved him. And knows so much better than we. Sadly missed by Mother, Father, Brothers and Sisters. 33 7.2

Hiring article is called inaccurate

An article Thursday on Granite City school hiring was inaccurate, board members and administrators said Friday.

Hiring was by a 6-1 vote, not 4-3, they said, and the decision was made from a single list of recommendations, not from the inferior of two lists.

Board Member Thomas Mufsky said his point in saying an applicant had priced himself out of a business education post was that the class involved general bookkeeping, general business, typing and stenography. While the program later may require more sophisticated instruction, in the meantime it would cost several thousands of dollars annually to hire a person whose experience and education exceeded the requirements, he commented.

Aid to veterans at new location

Clineard, veteran service officer for the Illinois Department of Local Government Affairs, announced today that he will resume aiding veterans and dependents in applying for benefits beginning July 10 in his new location, the Disabled American Veterans building, 1417 Nineteenth St. Clineard will be at that location each Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., beginning July 10. There will be no local service offered tomorrow as preparations are made to move to the new location.

Telephone assistance also will be given Tuesdays by calling 876-7816, he said. Other days of the week assistance in filing benefit forms is available by calling the Alton office at 1-465-3216, he said.

GC pharmacist shot in Missouri robbery

Robert V. Rojas, 41, of 2468 Killarney Drive, remains in serious condition today at St. Joseph Hospital, Kirkwood, with a gunshot wound to the forehead, sustained during the robbery of the Plaza Rexall drug store at High Ridge, Mo.

Rojas, a pharmacist, was working at the store about 4:50 p.m. Sunday when a man came in, threw a bag on the counter and told him to fill it with drugs.

Apparently Rojas did not hear the robber's request and the man grabbed a woman customer around the neck and pushed her toward the store's cashier, telling her to fill the bag with drugs. At the same time, he fired two shots at Rojas, striking him once in the forehead.

The second bullet lodged in a wall at the back of the store. Before leaving, the robber forced the customer and the woman cashier into a corner of the store and told them not to call police for 10 minutes. Jefferson County Sheriff Walter Buenger told the Press-Record today between 20 and 30 bottles of drugs and an undetermined amount of cash was taken in the robbery.

Witnesses said the robber was white and in his 20s, five feet, eight inches to five feet, 10 inches tall, weighing 165 to 175 pounds and wearing dark colored slacks and a blue flannel shirt.

For several years, Rojas was employed as pharmacist at the former Gantcheff Drug Store, 1919 Street and Delmar Avenue.

LONNIE J. BAILEY, son of Ralph and Marie Bailey, 704 Twenty-ninth Place, received numerous honors after completing all tank crew gunner's skill and Armed Forces Physical Fitness tests with maximum scores in all areas during basic training at Fort Knox, Ky. He is now at Fort Hood, Tex., in advanced training.

Man killed in mishap at Venice plant

Eugene Austin, 41, of Edwardsville, was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 1:40 p.m. Thursday following an accident in which Mr. Austin apparently was electrocuted.

Mr. Austin, an electrician, was working on a generator at the Union Electric plant in Venice when the accident occurred. Three companions with whom he was working on the generator told Dick Mirell, deputy Madison County coroner, that they didn't know exactly what happened, but Mrs. Austin apparently touched a 13,000-volt line.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Pamela Austin, and eight children.

Funeral services are scheduled at 12 noon Tuesday in the Civic Center, Brooklyn. Arrangements are being handled by an East St. Louis funeral home.

Holiday fest lures Quad-Cityans outdoors

THE FOURTH OF JULY HOLIDAY begins in Granite City on June 30, with the arrival of the carnival at Wilson Park. On Sunday, during the matinee, when all of the rides were a quarter, Quad-Cityans brought their kids out in droves. A good time was had by most, with a few of the little ones balking as Mom and Dad took them on rides they might not have chosen themselves.

Little 21-month-old Mathew MacRea (above) escorted his father Wayne on the merry-go-round, a trip that the boy was a little unsure as to whether he liked it or not.

The ferris wheel (top right) was among the favorite rides and, of course, the games were a hit. Booths have been set up by local organizations, selling food and drink. The festivities will continue through the Fourth.
